TEMPERS RISE
OVER TRIESTE
ZONE DISPUTEYAGOSLAVS BARRED FROM COLLECTING
REPARATIONS

BY LOUIS NEVIN
Paris, Sept. 28 (AP)—The peace conference approved today the "French Line" as a frontier between Italy and Yugoslavia and the establishment of the international zone of Trieste, and Yugoslavia defiantly announced she would not sign the Italian treaty nor withdraw troops from the disputed area.

Over strenuous Soviet-Slav objections the delegates then by an 11 to 8 vote retaliated by inserting into the treaty an American proposal which would bar Yugoslavia from collecting any of the $1,300,000,000 reparations she is claiming from Italy if she persists in her stand. The vote was not a two-thirds majority, however.

No One Trembling
The action took place in the Italian political commission, where U. S. Senator Tom Connally declared of Yugoslavia's threat, "no one is trembling in his boots." He predicted outside the conference that Yugoslavia "on reflection and consideration" would eventually sign the treaty.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky charged that the American article barring Yugoslavia from privileges of the treaty "violated" the Big Four agreement in the council of foreign ministers and had "hidden aims" behind it. His statement indicated Russia would oppose the article both in the conference plenary session and in the foreign ministers' council.

Vice Premier Edvard Kardelj of Yugoslavia asserted the article was a "dictate" and represents "a threat and an attempt to intimidate Yugoslavia. Yugoslavia has shown by its four years of fighting that it will not yield to intimidation."

France With Opposition
The American proposal, presented by U. S. Ambassador to James Dunn, said "the provisions of the present treaty shall not confer any rights or benefits on any state named in the preamble of the present treaty as one of the Allied and associated powers, or on its nationals unless such a state becomes a party to the treaty by deposit of its instrument of ratification."

It was approved 11 to 8 with Greece abstaining. France and Ethiopia joined the Slav bloc in opposition.

The Italian political commission began a four-hour session with defeat of a Yugoslav proposal to throw the entire frontier-Trieste problem back into the foreign ministers' council with the provision that a new decision must be taken "after previous consultation with a view to reaching an accord with Yugoslavia."

Connally voiced strong opposition, asserting "I regret that we have had a renewal of the Yugoslav statement that unless we decide on the line as Yugoslavia desires she will not sign such a treaty or be bound by any of its provisions."

"That truculent spirit is not a proper one for a peace conference. It does not frighten anyone. No one is trembling in his boots."

The French line, approved by the commission, was adopted during the foreign ministers' council in July and bisects Istria from north to south, leaving a section in which it is intended to create the international zone around Trieste. Of all the demarcation lines proposed by the Russians, French, British and Americans it was nearest the Morgan Line, the present division between occupation forces.

Hiroshima Hospitals
Unable To Take Care
Of All Bomb Victims

This is the fourth of 12 articles detailing what happened to six survivors of the atomic bomb that smashed Hiroshima. Through the eyes of the six we see just what happened to the city.

By John Hersey

SOME of the wounded in Hiroshima were unable to enjoy the questionable luxury of hospitalization. In what had been the personnel office of the East Asia Tin Works, Miss Sasaki lay doubled over, unconscious, under the tremendous pile of books and plaster and wood and corrugated iron.

She was wholly unconscious (she later estimated) for about three hours. Her first sensation was of dreadful pain in her left leg. It was so black under the books and debris that the borderline between awareness and unconsciousness was fine; she apparently crossed it several times, for the pain seemed to come and go. At the moments when it was sharpest, she felt that her leg had been cut off somewhere below the knee.

Later, she heard someone walking on top of the wreckage above her, and anguished voices spoke up, evidently from within the mess around her.

"Please help! Get us out!"

Father Kleinsorge stemmed Father Schiffer's spurring cut as well as he could with some bandages that Dr. Fujii had given the priests a few days before. When he finished, he ran into the mission house again and found the jacket of his military uniform and an old pair of gray trousers. He put them on and went outside. A woman from next door ran up to him and shouted that her husband was buried under her house and the house was on fire. Father Kleinsorge must come and save him.

Father Kleinsorge, already growing apathetic and dazed in the presence of the cumulative distress, said, "We haven't much time." Houses all around were burning, and the wind was now blowing hard. "Do you know exactly which part of the house he is under?" he asked.

"Yes, yes," she said. "Come quickly."

They went around to the house, the remains of which blazed violently, but when they got there, it turned out that the woman had no idea where her husband was. Father Kleinsorge shouted several times, "Is anyone there?" There was no answer.

Father Kleinsorge said to the woman, "We must get away or we will all die." He went back to the Catholic compound and told the Father Superior that the fire was coming closer on the wind, which had swung around and was

FIVE U. S. FLIERS
HELD BY LOLOSCaptives All Reported
In Good Health; Army
Planning Rescue

Shanghai, Sept. 28 (AP)—Private reports from Chengtu tonight said U. S. Army investigators were convinced that five American airmen actually were being held in bondage by the savage Lolo tribesmen of Western China and that all were in good health.

The reports were taken here to mean that a full-scale attempt would be made quickly to rescue the men who are believed to have been prisoners since they crashed in the mountains near the Tibetan-Burmese borders probably two years ago.

The American investigators went to Chengtu, in Szechwan province, to determine whether vague reports of such prisoners were sufficiently valid to warrant a difficult and expensive liberation expedition.

The reports received here were that the investigators had decided the reports were true, though there is as yet no clue to the identities of the captives and none is likely until they are actually found.

American authorities here, realizing the relatives of numerous airmen still listed as missing must be hoping that their kin are the lucky survivors, warned, that rescue and identification would take a long time.

Ransom probably will be necessary, lest the fierce and well-armed Lolos harm the captives. Chinese authorities are expected to give all possible aid, and indications are that the U. S. Army will use the best talent, including missionaries who are familiar with the tribesmen's ways.

FIGHT FACING DEMOCRATS IN FALL BALLOTSPARTY IN POWER
HAS HEAD START IN HOUSE

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Political Reporter

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Democrats, who concede they have a fight on their hands to retain control of the House, will start off with a 60-seat pre-election head start over the Republicans.

An Associated Press survey today showed 67 Democrats running for the House either have no opposition in the Nov. 5 elections or have both major party nominations.

Only seven Republicans are assured of election in advance of the voting.

Another 37 Democratic candidates are virtually "in" before the balloting. They are running against Republicans in the Democratic south.

This would give the party in power a total of 104 seats, with another 114 needed for a bare majority to organize the House in the 80th Congress beginning on Jan. 3.

Republicans Confident
But the Republicans are campaigning with a confidence unequalled in the 16 years the Democrats have had control of the House. They say they will capture up to 50 Democratic seats while retaining their present strength. They will need only 26 overturns to swing it.

The present house line-up is: Democrats 237 and four vacancies; Republicans 192; American Labor, one, and Progressive, one. A majority is 218.

Of the 67 Democrats assured of election, 60 are unopposed in 10 southern states. One, Rep. John W. McCormack, House majority leader, has no opposition in Massachusetts, and six won both major nominations in California where cross filing is permitted in primaries.

The seven Republicans as good as elected now come from three states. Two are unopposed in the traditionally Republican first and second districts of Tennessee, one has no challenger in Kentucky, and four have the Democratic as well as Republican nominations in California.

Two Democratic Senatorial candidates are unopposed. They are Theodore G. Bilbo, Mississippi, and John J. Sparkman, Alabama. Democratic gubernatorial nominees Eugene Talmadge in Georgia and J. Strom Thurmond in South Carolina have no opposition, while Governor Earl Warren, Republican, has both major nominations for re-election in California.

Republicans Look Into Shortage Of
Steaks And Chops

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP)—The prospect of more meat within two to four weeks was foreseen today by Geoffrey Baker, OPA deputy administrator, as Republicans promised their own investigation to find out what has become of the nation's steaks and chops.

"There is good reason to expect improved supplies in both beef and pork beginning with the latter part of October," Baker said in a radio talk.

But the Republican congressional food study committee, headed by Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio, took a less optimistic view. "There is a growing suspicion in the minds of many consumers," Jenkins said in a statement here, "that socialist government interference with the livestock and meat industry has so demoralized this great source of food that we are on the verge of an actual meat scarcity, which would provide an excuse for government operation."

Hurricane Moving
North In Pacific;
Shipping Warned

Los Angeles, Sept. 28 (AP)—A hurricane brewed in the Southwest Pacific moved slowly northward tonight, and the weather bureau in an advisory warned offshore shipping, particularly of the small craft variety, to exercise extreme caution.

A Navy plane, penetrating to within 30 miles of the hurricane's center before it was forced back by motor trouble, fixed the center at about 350 miles south of San Diego. This was a hundred miles farther from the California coast than an earlier directive several hours earlier had indicated.

'SQUATTER FEVER' SPREADS TO CANADA—London's recent wave of squatter-trouble has spread to Canada where the newly-formed Veterans' Housing League seized several government buildings in Ottawa and installed homeless families. League leader is Franklin E. Hamratty, former RCAF officer with 46 raids over Germany and Italy to his credit. Above, Hamratty is shown being arrested by a Mountie after he threw lumber around in seized building to make room for another squatter family. (NEA Photo.)

Government Works
To Avert 'Tragedy'
Of New Ship Strike

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, opening negotiations aimed at averting a new Maritime strike Monday night, told union and shipowner representatives tonight that another shipworker walkout would be a "tragedy."

Schwellenbach told the negotiators they had an important job to reach agreement before the strike deadline and said both ship operators and unions should be prepared to make sacrifices.

Operator spokesmen from both coasts conferred for an hour with representatives of the CIO

Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association. The government worked today to avert a new Maritime strike with some hope the Monday midnight deadline may be postponed. One of two ship officers unions threatening the strike renewed an offer of a postponement.

Capt. Harry Martin, president of the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots Union, told reporters he would recommend to his membership a delay in strike action if the CIO Marine Engineers Union did likewise and provided government negotiations showed signs of real progress.

There was no immediate indication how the CIO union felt about the postponement idea. And there was still a third strike possibility, though it would apply only to West Coast shipping, in Harry Bridges' Longshoremen's Union. Bridges, also threatening a Monday midnight walkout, is negotiating for a 33-cent hourly pay boost in separate government sessions in San Francisco.

Actual negotiations here on the AFL pilots' demand for a 30 percent wage boost and the CIO engineers' for a 35 percent raise were delayed pending arrival of West Coast principals. A strike by either or both of these unions probably would shut down all American shipping.

PLANE TOURISTS
OVER PENINSULA

Scenic Spots Are Viewed
From Air By Fliers
From All Over U. S.

Traverse City, Sept. 28 (AP)—A new era in peace-time travel was predicted here today by William Palmer, secretary-manager of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, in extending welcome to the pilots and passengers of more than 100 airplanes from all parts of the United States, participating in the Michigan Aviation Color Tour Sept. 28 to Oct. 3.

After spending the weekend here, flights will be taken into the Upper Peninsula covering many of the scenic spots in that area. With early visitation of frost, much of the territory to be viewed presents a never-ending panorama of indescribable color and beauty.

An elaborate program of entertainment has been arranged for the air tourists at the various landing spots.

"Michigan is prepared to offer healthful recreation in all seasons of the year," Palmer said, "and I am confident this air Color Tour will stimulate interest in our winter as well as summer attractions."

Candidates Start
Slugging In Race
For Governorship

(By The Associated Press)
Michigan's candidates for governor in the November state election promised today (Sunday) to enliven their pace from introductory campaign tours to full-scale slugging over the issues.

Kim Sigler, the Republican nominee, said he would "start kicking things around" at a Bay City rally Tuesday night. His CIO-PAC endorsed Democratic opponent, Murray D. Van Wagoner, gets things rolling the same day with a speech to an Ingham county meeting of Michigan Farm Bureau executives.

On Wednesday the former governor will appear at a Muskegon rally, then he will invade Sigler's home town of Battle Creek Thursday and tour Iosco and Oscoda counties Friday before winding up the week in Wayne county.

Sigler's running mate, Dr. Eugene C. Keyes, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, will lead the GOP attack into the Upper Peninsula the following week. Van Wagoner and other candidates on his ticket also will revisit the Upper Peninsula the same week.

Keyes meanwhile denied reports of political differences between himself and Sigler. A number of his leased billboards have been turned over to the Republican state central committee and to Sigler, Keyes said. He also said he had been with Sigler in Detroit whenever possible.

Van Wagoner took the CIO-PAC endorsement, bestowed on him Friday night, with pride.

"I am pleased that the working men and women of Michigan join with the forward-looking business men, farmers and professional people who are united in a common regard for the type of constructive government which we intend to give."

But Republican leaders were reported preparing to use the endorsement in an attempt to align Van Wagoner with left wing labor.

FREIGHT KILLS
SLEEPING BOYSThree Hammond Youths
Caught On Tracks By Nickel Plate Train

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 28 (AP)—A Nickel Plate freight train early today killed three Hammond Technical high school youths who vainly tried to escape from the tracks on which they had been sleeping at Black Oak, a community between Hammond and Gary.

Dead were Melvin Altgibers, 16, of Black Oak, and Charles Chick, 16, and James Walker, 15, both of Hammond.

A fourth boy, James August Blair, 16, of Hammond, managed to get out of the locomotive's path and ran two miles to his home and his mother called police.

Deputy Sheriff Arthur Thompson said Blair told him the quartet held a "get together" at a Hammond home last night and that the three boys who were killed each drank a bottle of beer.

They then started down the right-of-way when Altgibers became ill and the boys sat on the tracks, Thompson continued. Seeing an approaching train they moved to safety.

Returning to the tracks, he went on, they fell asleep. The rumbling of the freight train awakened them. Blair told the officer and Altgibers pushed him from the tracks. Chick and Walker were unable to scramble from the path.

Deputy Coroner Michael Shellhouse examined Altgibers' body and said he could find no evidence of intoxication. As a result, Shellhouse added, there would be no post-mortem examination of the victims.

New Constitution
For France Voted
In By Legislature

Paris, Sunday, Sept. 29 (AP)—The French legislature adopted a new constitution for the fourth republic early today by the overwhelming vote of 440 to 106.

The balloting, which ended at 4 a. m. (10 p. m., Saturday, Eastern Standard Time), came only a few hours before Gen. Charles De Gaulle was to make his tensity-awaited statement concerning his opinion of the new basic law of the nation.

De Gaulle, his friends have said, will speak directly to the French people and urge them to reject the charter in the referendum on the constitution to be held Oct. 13.

TROOPERS ARE SUSPENDED IN
BRIBERY CASEEX - CAPTAIN LYON
INDICTED AGAIN
BY GRAND JURY

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Sept. 28 (AP)—Three state police sergeants, named today with five other persons in two indictments handed down by the Macomb county one man grand jury, offered to plead guilty a few hours later.

Judge Herman Dehnke, whose indictment charged the officers with conspiracy to obstruct justice by accepting bribes to allow gambling, declined to accept the formal pleas but entered them on the record.

"I don't like any delays in legal matters," he told the trio, but added, "however, I want to avoid even the appearance of undue haste. I want you men to have every opportunity to consider your decisions."

Hotel Man Jailed
The indictments charged the three sergeants and former State Police Captain Laurence A. Lyon with conspiracy while the others named in the document were charged with maintaining and operating slot machines.

In another move today, Judge Dehnke imposed a second 60-day sentence on Sol Adaskin, 50, a Mt. Clemens hotel operator, who drew a previous sentence when he declined to answer grand jury questions.

All eight defendants waived examination. Lyon, awaiting sentence on a state graft grand jury indictment, was ordered held and returned to his jail cell at Mason. The others were released on their personal recognizance.

Former officers named with Lyon as defendants in the conspiracy charge were: Sgt. Leslie V. Maycock, former assistant commander of the Detroit district, recently suspended "on advice of Judge Dehnke."

Sgt. William Heit, former commander of the Mt. Pleasant and Detroit posts, suspended for the same reason.

Sgt. Stanley Carlson, commander of the Center Line post until his resignation Friday night, which he said he submitted "rather than be suspended."

The amounts of the bribes the ex-officers were accused of accepting were not revealed.

Arthur P. Sauve, star witness of the grand jury, was named as a co-conspirator but not a defendant in this indictment.

The second indictment on maintaining charges, however, listed Sauve as a defendant along with the following:

John Siereus, prominent Mt. Clemens businessman, charged with operating slot machines.

Herman Hodnett, charged with servicing and collecting from Siereus' machines.

Morris Feldman, owner of the Arethusa hotel where the warrant charges, the slot machines were maintained.

Two Fight Extradition
Lyon, long head of the state police uniform division, pleaded guilty to charges preferred by Judge Louis E. Coash, the state graft grand juror, of accepting $2,600 in bribes to permit slot machine operations in Ingham county.

He completed a 60-day contempt sentence imposed by Judge Coash, but his $5,000 bond was cancelled and he was kept in jail. The new indictments are reversed.

CAR-TO-OFFICE PHONE UNVEILED

Motorist Transmits His Voice By Radio In New Bell Service

Detroit, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Michigan Bell Telephone Co. today unveiled its first big postwar development, a mobile car-to-office system of communication that enables a roving reporter to keep in touch with his editor.

Newspapermen were given a test "run" today but the service will be inaugurated in the Detroit area Monday for about 50 subscribers, including commercial firms and public safety departments, as well as certain newspapers.

Company officials said that within a year it will be available in all major Michigan cities below the Muskegon-Bay City line.

It is a refinement of the telephone ship-to-shore service, with the motorist transmitting his voice by radio to receiving centers where it is linked with regular telephone channels.

It was the first test of its kind in Michigan history, although the car-to-office system is already in operation in a few other major cities in the nation.

At present the Bell company has only one FM radio channel and calls are limited by the traffic this channel will carry at one time.

However, additional channels have been requested and service will be enlarged as they are made available.

It is now possible to call any telephone number in the United States or abroad from a moving vehicle within a 20-mile radius of the Detroit headquarters. Within a year the same service will be offered from practically any point in Lower Michigan.

Frog Man Gangster Fights Arrest In $125,000 Swindle

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28. (AP)—A dapper little man with a small grey mustache and ballroom manner, said by the FBI to be known in gangster circles as "The Frog Man" and "Kid Tiger," told U. S. Commissioner Roger Edward Davis today he would fight return to New York to answer charges in connection with a $125,000 swindle.

The man, Antonio Navarro Fernandez, 52, described by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as a notorious international confidence man, was arrested here last night as he stepped off a plane from Curaçao, Dutch West Indies, and arraigned today.

Taken before Commissioner Davis, perspiration dripped down his face as he protested his innocence and said he would contest any attempt to remove him to New York state where the swindle charges were filed.

Davis set his bond at $100,000 which Fernandez said he could furnish. He was returned to the Dade county jail to await another hearing at 10 a. m. next Wednesday. The complaint on which he was arrested did not mention the name of the person whom he is charged with swindling, but Davis said it probably was in papers enroute here from New York.

In Washington, Hoover also refused to disclose the name of the person from whom the money is alleged to have been obtained.

Three Men Survive Ride In Runaway Truck On Mountain

Walsenburg, Colo., Sept. 28. (AP)—A harrowing tale of riding a runaway semi-trailer truck down seven miles of mountain road while it reached speeds of as much as 100 miles an hour was related today by C. W. Golden, the driver.

Two other men, with Golden, survived the ride on the truck which crashed into a passenger automobile before ending its wild journey. The truck was loaded with 18 tons of apples.

Golden told Sheriff Claude Swift that he was driving the truck down the eastern slope of La Veta Pass when the brakes failed. He threw the truck into second gear, but burned out the transmission.

Golden's brother was preceding the load down the pass in a passenger car when he saw the truck bearing down on him. He attempted to stay ahead, but finally took to a borrow pit at 75 miles an hour when the truck kept gaining.

A few minutes later the truck overtook and rammed into the rear of a passenger car, Golden told the sheriff. A second passenger car was driven off the road and turned over. The two occupants of the car escaped injury other than minor bruises.

The truck then overturned and stopped on its side.

Northern Michigan College Dormitory To Cost $85,000

Lansing—(AP)—The Miller-Davis company of Kalamazoo, was the low bidder today on an $85,000 women's dormitory and union building for the Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette.

The company submitted a fixed cost bid of $85,000, plus $2,400 surety bond cost for a total of $87,400. The second lowest bidder, Strom Construction company, Grand Rapids, submitted a similar fixed bid but its surety bond cost was $4,067.

Nazi Leaders Hear Fate Monday; Wife Of Goering Weeps

Nuernberg, Sept. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Hermann Goering emerged in tears today from the Nuernberg prison where her husband and 20 other Hitler henchmen, mindful that their time was running out swiftly, waited nervously to learn their fate.

The wife of Hitler's former Reichsmarshal had been calm up to now. It may have been the heightening tension felt by all here in the last days of the historic war crimes proceedings which broke her unruffled calm—but it was recalled that Goering has believed from the outset that he would be executed.

FAST FREIGHT BY AIR SEEN

All-Cargo Planes Will By Flying Regular Routes Soon

Washington—Fast freight of the future will travel by air, manufacturers of planes predict, and they are backing up their opinion with all-cargo planes which will be to air service what freight trains are to railroading. Passenger planes can carry express, but for heavy articles air-freighters are needed.

The Fairchild Packet, the argoline, and the new Boeing Stratofreighter, just announced, are three of the outstanding all-cargo planes. The Packet has been in service over a year. It is one of the first planes designed entirely for cargo, and in the military service has exceeded expectations and performance. It is of unusual design, a sort of a box-car in appearance. Its fuselage is one big cargo compartment with straight sides, a level floor, and a flat ceiling.

The Stratofreighter is a much larger craft, a double-deck four-engine affair, designed to operate at low cost. It is a sister ship of the Boeing 80-passenger Stratocruiser which will soon be in the air. It will carry a cargo twice in volume that of the ordinary railroad boxcar.

The main cargo compartment of the Packet is eight-foot square and 28 feet long. It is easily loaded because, when the rear construction of the fuselage is open, the floor of the compartment is about four feet from the ground, the height of the ordinary truck platform, and trucks can be backed under the tail of the plane directly to the wide door.

In military operation, the Packet has shown a cruising speed of 200 miles an hour at 10,000 feet altitude. Only 800 feet are required for take-off with a gross weight of 42,000 pounds. It is a two-engine craft, with high wings and tail to facilitate the movement of trucks in its vicinity. It has a wing span of over 106 feet and an over-all length of nearly 76 feet.

Discharges Stepped Up By Army; 300,000 Enlisted Men To Go

Washington—(AP)—The Army ordered today that the discharge of a "substantial" proportion of an estimated 300,000 enlisted men be advanced up to six months.

"Certain categories" of non-regular enlisted men stationed in the United States, who are within six months of attaining eligibility for discharge under existing regulations, are to be released if they can be spared.

Those arriving from overseas who are within six months of becoming eligible for release "will be immediately processed for separation."

Further the War department directed that men serving in either the United States or overseas who are within six months of release and present evidence of acceptance as college or university students will be discharged "with as little delay as possible."

Non-volunteers now must serve 18 months so that the effect of the new order is to reduce the service of some men to a single year.

The war department said the action was taken "in consideration of budgetary limitations," efficiency. Dates for the release of many officers similarly were advanced earlier this week by six and were aimed also at increasing months or more.

Electric Motor Is All-Steel Encased

Buffalo—Called the most revolutionary change in construction since the invention of the electric motor 50 years ago, a new all-steel motor developed by Westinghouse is revealed today. It packs up to 134% more power per pound of weight than previous motors, and is designed to increase the efficiency of machine tools.

The frame for the new motor is made from a single piece of steel rolled into a circle with the ends welded. Leon R. Ludwig, manager of the Westinghouse plant here, states. Obviously this frame is stronger than one of cast iron, he declares. The same goes for the bell-shaped covers for each end of the motor.

Keystone of the new motor, he

Around the Nuernberg prison security measures were tightened for the last acts of the international drama which has held the stage for 10 months. Monday the 21 Nazi leaders will troop into court and hear the tribunal's judgment.

The verdicts are expected Tuesday from the four-power international military tribunal which reviewed the tons of evidence. Then control of the prisoners passes to the Allied control council.

It will be the duty of the control council to see that sentences are carried out. Col. B. C. Andrus, internal security officer for the court, held a special four-power security meeting today to discuss handling of the prisoners during Monday's and Tuesday's sessions.

The blackout of information from the prison, ordered by the tribunal, was complete. It was learned, however, that visiting times for the wives of the defendants had been extended in these last days.

Up to now the wives have been allowed one-hour visits daily. The last visits were set for tonight, and the tribunal has ordered the women to leave Nuernberg tomorrow.

Thomas Jefferson Heckled By Spiders; Statue Gets DDT

BY ARTHUR L. EDSON
Washington, Sept. 28. (AP)—The government issued this ultimatum to a bunch of scuttling spiders: "You've got to quit heckling Thomas Jefferson."

Nobody knows when the spiders, apartment hunting in jammed-to-the-rafters Washington, spotted the Jefferson Memorial, and moved in.

They could have been happy and unmolested there, in this $3,500,000 hunk of marble, with a lovely view of the Potomac.

Alas, they fell victims of their incurable habit. In effect, they were caught in their own webs.

H. T. Thompson, assistant superintendent of the National Capital Parks Service, told a reporter the impudent critters soon began cobwebbing like—well, like spiders.

This, of course, was a pretty howdy-do. Tourists who dropped in to see Jefferson remained to tsk, tsk at the cobwebs.

So Thompson, acting as agent for the landlord, Uncle Sam, handed the spiders their eviction notice.

He wrapped the notice in DDT. Results: "Promising."

Lumber Priorities To Cover Sawmills As Aid To Housing

Washington, Sept. 28. (AP)—Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt announced tonight that lumber priorities will be extended to cover sawmills, despite vigorous opposition from lumber producers.

The action, effective November 1, will enable lumber yards and other dealers to serve upon the sawmills the "HH" or housing priority which is handed to them by the builder of a veteran's home.

Agreement that such action is necessary "to assure that more lumber will flow into housing" has been reached by the national housing agency and the civilian production administration Wyatt's statement said.

NHA officials have declared their belief that too much lumber, sorely needed in the housing drive, has been escaping into industrial and commercial uses through sales at the lumber mill.

Church Is Urged To Save Japanese From Radicalism

Philadelphia—(AP)—The future of Japan today rests upon Christian leadership, says the Rt. Rev. Charles S. Reifsnider, formerly missionary bishop to Japan for the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U. S. A.

"We have a wonderful opportunity to present Christ to the Japanese," Bishop Reifsnider told delegates to the church's recent 55th triennial convention in Philadelphia.

"A vacuum was created by defeat and the collapse of the nation. If we do not give them aid they will turn to Communism," the bishop continued, adding:

"If we fail to take this God-given opportunity, the cause of Christianity in Japan will be set back at least a decade and probably never will return."

Bishop Reifsnider was forced to leave Japan at the start of World War II. Church spokesmen said his successor would not be selected until a later date.

continues, is its flexibility. Focal point of flexibility centers upon the stator core, the circular stationary part, and the frame assembly. The identical stator core and frame assembly are used regardless of whether the finished motor will be drip-proof, splash-proof, totally enclosed fan-cooled or totally enclosed non-ventilated. As a comparison, old linemotors required a different frame casting for each of these types of enclosures.

POWER WANES IN PITTSBURGH

Strikers Reject Peace Proposal; Thousands Of Workers Idle

Pittsburgh, Sept. 28 (AP)—Striking power union workers tonight rejected a peace proposal from the struck Duquesne Light Co., dashing hopes for immediate settlement of a walkout which has paralyzed business and industry and created a transportation crisis in the city.

President George L. Mueller of the union announced the vote was 1,170 to 553.

Mueller declared the vote, taken at a membership meeting was on a motion from the floor to reject an offer from the management involving a five per cent pay hike, in contrast with the 20 per cent sought by the employees.

Meanwhile, the big steel town's power supply was waning rapidly, its transit system was shut down tight and many thousands of workers were in idleness from the strike which started five days ago.

Demand For Meat Seen In Terms Of Body Economics

Buffalo—Consumer demand for meat or other protein and fats for food is tied up with the economics of the human body as well as with the economics of the market place, it appears from a report by Dr. E. B. Forbes, emeritus professor of animal nutrition, Pennsylvania State College, at the 100th birthday celebration of the University of Buffalo School of Medicine here.

Fat and protein, he reported, favor the transformation of food into body substance with less energy waste than would be supposed from the effects of individual foodstuffs. It is not surprising that fat and protein are thus economically transformed into body substance, he pointed out, since human and other animal bodies are made up mainly of fat and protein.

"A lot of people have very wrong ideas" of the effect of foods in nourishing the body, Dr. Forbes declared. The reason for these wrong ideas is that they are based on study of the effects of one class of foods fed by themselves.

Butcher Advertisises For Bear Meat And Live Bear Arrives

Superior, Wis., Sept. 27. (AP)—Henry Cohen, proprietor of the city market, is convinced it pays to advertise.

Cohen inserted the following advertisement in the Superior Evening Telegram early this week: "Attention hunters! Bear meat wanted! Will pay any amount."

At 6:15 a. m. today, Police Officer Glenn Matthews, patrolling his beat, was amazed to see a huge, shaggy bear plodding placidly down Tower avenue in the direction of the city market.

Chief of Police Arthur Buchanan hurriedly consulted the game warden who authorized the department to shoot the bear and dispose of the carcass. The information was relayed by radio to a squad car where officer Arne Kornstead, who had reinforced Matthews, promptly put the order into effect with a shot from a .32 rifle.

Cohen's eyes popped as officers Matthews and Kornstead dragged the carcass into the city market. He weighed it out at 330 pounds, offered $100 and the bid was accepted by the department for the police pension fund.

Bear meat will go on sale at the city market Monday.

Kansas City Star Claims Frauds In Primary Election

Kansas City, Sept. 28. (AP)—The Kansas City Star said tonight that evidence of voting frauds in the August 6 primary had been uncovered in an investigation conducted by two of its reporters and the information had been turned over to Sam Wear, United States district attorney.

Wear, reached at his home in Springfield, Mo., said he had received "reports concerning voting in four precincts."

In the torrid primary battle, Fifth District Congressman Roger C. Slaughter was defeated for re-nomination by Enos Axtell who had the active support of President Truman and the James M. Pendergast machine. Mr. Truman called for the defeat of Slaughter, asserting that he had opposed administration-blessed legislation.

"If Slaughter is right, I'm wrong," the president told a news conference shortly before the primary.

GREECE GREETS KING GEORGE II

Tumultuous Welcome Is Given Ruler Back From Exile

BY L. S. CHAKALES

Athens, Sept. 28 (AP)—King George II tonight entrusted premier Constantin Tsaldaris with the task of forming a new Greek government a few hours after the exiled monarch returned to the capital of his strife-torn native land and immediately turned his attention to governmental problems.

The king, returning after five years of exile, was received by an outwardly tumultuous welcome from thousands of Greeks shouting "long live the king" and "greater Greece."

He arrived at a quay in Phaleron Bay on a royal launch after spending last night on the destroyer Miaoulis. He was greeted by the entire Greek cabinet, headed by Premier Constantin Tsaldaris as artillery salutes boomed from the hills.

The usually austere monarch, attired in full battle dress, waved an acknowledgement and smiled as a royal motor cavalcade moved through streets jammed on both sides with enthusiastic onlookers. He sat in an open car with his brother, Crown Prince Paul and Princess Fredrika. The day was bright and sunny and in the clear skies above the ancient city fighters and bombers roared in formation.

Building Started At Michigan State To Ease Crowding

East Lansing—(AP)—Construction of three new buildings at Michigan State College was begun this week, completion of which will partially alleviate the existing shortages of classroom and laboratory space on the campus.

Expected to be ready for occupancy by the opening of Fall term are the new physics, agricultural engineering and electrical engineering buildings costing an estimated $2,225,000.

The million dollar physics building will house the physics, astronomy and mathematics departments and will be located east of the present anatomy building. The new electric building will be situated south of the present chemical engineering building and will cost $850,000. The agricultural engineering building will be located on the south side of the Red Cedar river and will be built at a cost of $475,000.

Also under construction are a two-million dollar science building, a million dollar classroom building, a home economics home management laboratory, a food storage building, a power house and an addition to the administration building. Two men's and three women's dormitories and six apartment buildings for married veterans families are in various stages of construction.

POLIO GROUP MEETS MONDAY

Plans For March Of Dimes Campaign To Be Made

The Delta county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will meet at the junior high school 7:30 o'clock Monday evening to make plans for the March of Dimes drive to be held in January.

Members of the chapter committees are: Leslie Olson, chairman; Roy Overpack, secretary; Earle Harris, treasurer; John A. Lemmer, Lloyd Peltier and Gerald J. Cleary.

Chairman Olson disclosed yesterday that $2,492,281 in supplementary aid has been sent so far this year by the National Foundation to its chapters in 36 states.

This financial assistance was necessary to replenish chapter treasuries depleted in providing treatment and care of infantile paralysis patients stricken this summer and in aiding victims of prior outbreaks.

Mr. Olson made this disclosure following receipt of a statement from Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation, which reemphasized the fundamental policy followed by the Foundation and its chapters in providing for care and treatment of infantile paralysis victims.

Mr. O'Connor's statement said: "The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has accepted a public trust through the annual March of Dimes. The voluntary contributions of the American people to this annual appeal in January is their insurance that no infantile paralysis patient need go without the best medical care and treatment, regardless of age, race, creed or color."

"It has always been the policy of the National Foundation to aid any person stricken by this disease, where the financial burden would otherwise lower his or her family's standard of living."

"Such aid covers transportation of the patient to and from hospitals and clinics; payment of hospitalization, medical care and treatment until maximum recovery is achieved; the defraying of nursing and physical therapy charges, and costs of orthopedic surgery, as well as provision of such special appliances as may be indicated."

"Resources necessary for this tremendous task are available."

Hunting Season Brings Gun Accident Hazards

What causes a hunting accident? That's a question that should be uppermost in the mind of every person who will take to the woods and fields Tuesday when the small game season opens. They also should know some—or all—of the answers.

The need for caution in the woods during hunting season indicated in statistics of gun accidents compiled by the department of conservation, and cited here yesterday by John Angulin, district conservation supervisor. During that portion of the small game hunting season to Nov. 1, 1945, nine persons were killed and 65 were injured in the state, and the year before the toll was even higher—33 dead and 163 injured.

Chief cause of hunting accidents is the gun itself, and the second cause is the hunter who carries it. Hunting is considered one of the safest of safe sports, and there is a combined effort under way to make it still safer through the teaching of safety practices.

Statistics supplied by the conservation department show that six of the nine persons killed in small game hunting accidents last year were killed by guns in the hands of persons 18 years of age or younger. The ages of the persons killed ranged from 10 to 72—but six of them were under 20. Of the 65 persons injured, 23 were under 18 years of age.

Recognizing the factor of young and inexperienced hunters as a safety hazard, the conservation department is encouraging the teaching of gun safety to persons in this age group. Sportsmen's clubs are sponsoring junior safety practices. Copies of "The 10 Commandments of Safety" are distributed.

They were donated by some 50,000 Americans who realized that costs involved in the care and treatment of this disease, one of the most expensive known to medicine, are far beyond average family means.

"Through pooling dimes the nation has established a voluntary, non-profit organization to take care of anyone stricken by polio. I want to assure every family in this country that if polio should strike, local chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis serving every county in the nation are ready and able to provide every possible facility until maximum recovery is assured."

mandments of Safety" are distributed. These "10 commandments" are as follows:

1—Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.

2—Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into your automobile, camp and home.

3—Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.

4—Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.

5—Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.

6—Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.

7—Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.

8—Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun.

9—Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.

10—Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

Illness Claims Mrs. Fred Holmes, Cornell Pioneer

Mrs. Fred Holmes, 80, widely known pioneer resident of Escanaba at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marcell Ashland, 613 South 12th street, where she had been staying since she suffered a stroke about a year and a half ago. Mrs. Holmes became seriously ill only a few days ago, however.

Mrs. Holmes was born June 20, 1866, in Wester Gotland, Sweden, and came to Republic, Mich., in 1890, where her marriage to Mr. Holmes took place in 1892. The couple moved to Cornell in 1901, where they have resided since that time. They observed their golden wedding anniversary on Oct. 8, 1942.

Mrs. Holmes was a member of the Bethany Lutheran church, and of its Missionary Society.

She is survived by her husband one son, Anton Holmes of Escanaba; three daughters, Mrs. Marcell (Alice) Ashland, Escanaba; Mrs. John (Mary) Backlund and Mrs. Wilfred (Gertrude) Mattson of Cornell; and ten grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home, where it will be in state this afternoon. Funeral services will be held at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the funeral home, and at 2:15 at the Bethany Lutheran church, the Rev. Gustav Lund officiating. Burial will be made in the family lot in Lakeview cemetery.

Undertaker Dies

On Trip With Body

Gary, Ind.—(AP)—Death came to an undertaker today as he was driving a body from Elgin, Ill., to Michigan City, Ind.

Soon after he became ill at the wheel of a hearse containing the body of Melvin M. Lloyd, 78, who died yesterday at Elgin, Glenn M. Eschelman, 45, of Elgin, died in Mercy Hospital here.

When Eschelman became ill he attracted the attention of a traffic policeman, who summoned an ambulance. The hearse was driven on to Michigan City, where Lloyd's funeral was to be held, by another member of the Gary police force.

Eschelman's survivors include his widow, a son, John M. Eschelman of Elgin, and a daughter, Mrs. Fred J. Ulanzy, whose husband is an Army medical officer stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

Loans Available On Potato Crop

Producers of late-crop potatoes can begin to take out Commodity Credit Corporation loans on their 1946 crop beginning September 16, according to Frank J. Brander, Chairman of the Delta County AAA Committee.

Loans are being used by the Government to support prices on late potatoes, supplemented by diversions to food, industrial, and food outlets.

The loan rate will be approximately 75 percent of the September bulk (loaded on truck at farmer's gate) support price for potatoes in approved storage. Loan rate for Delta county are $1.15 per cwt. for U. S. No. 1 quality and $0.40 per cwt. for U. S. No. 1 size B and U. S. No. 2 quality (1 7-8 inch minimum).

To promote orderly marketing of the crop under loan, borrowers can deliver only 20 percent of the entire crop each month, beginning any time after completion of the loan. Last year's deliveries were permitted at the rate of 30 percent per month, but began in January.

Loans will mature on demand.

AN IMPRESSIVE RECORD

★ Although tuberculosis is one of the oldest known diseases, its cause was first conclusively proved when Robert Koch isolated the tubercle bacillus a little over fifty years ago. The success resulting from vigorous public health measures, particularly in the last quarter century, is impressive. At the beginning of the century, tuberculosis led the list of diseases as the most frequent cause of death. Today it has dropped to seventh place. There is no reason why it should not drop completely from the list of important causes of death.

This splendid record has resulted from the combined efforts of many agencies. An enlightened public opinion with respect to the value of the physician's services has contributed immeasurably. Have that long-delayed physical examination today. We are prescription specialists.

60-Day Suspension?

IF PRICE control is a bad influence on production, as many people believe, instability of price control is even worse, which is why the politically-inspired movement to take meat off price control for a period of 60 days is about the worst solution to the present meat crisis that could be conceived.

Taking meat off price control completely is one thing but suspending controls for a pre-assigned 60 day period is something entirely different. The proposal from Democratic bigwigs in Congress for a 60 day moratorium, so to speak, is a political move to bring back on the market during the period of the national election campaign, without conceding that price controls on meat have failed.

It is undoubtedly true that meat supplies would increase during the 60 day period, but it would result in a stampede to rush cattle, much of it immature, to market before price ceilings were restored. We are now paying the penalty for a similar mistake in August of this year.

If price controls are to be lifted on meat, and that seems to be about the only sensible solution to the present mess, then they should be lifted permanently. To provide assurance to the meat industry that controls will not be restored, once they are lifted, the entire OPA organization should be dissolved. In that way, farmers would not attempt to beat a deadline by moving immature cattle to market but would retain those animals on the ranges until they are properly fattened for market.

Price control was workable while there was a stable price policy, geared to wages, but when the lid went off on wages, price control was utterly destroyed. The OPA organization today is merely an instrument to approve price increases and to let commodities reach their proper level. We don't need a costly federal bureaucracy for that purpose.

CIO-PAC for Democrats

NOT unexpected was the announcement that the Michigan CIO-PAC will give its endorsement to the Democratic candidates in November election campaign.

Since its birth under the aegis of the New Deal, the CIO's Political Action Committee has consistently backed the Democratic party candidates, regardless of the exemplary records of Republican nominees. In the Congressional campaign, there is nothing much the CIO-PAC can do to forestall the reelection of Rep. Fred Bradley, for the Eleventh district Republican incumbent is unopposed. It has entered into the Twelfth district fight, however, by again pledging its wholehearted support to Rep. Frank Hook, Ironwood Democrat. The committee is particularly strong in the Twelfth district, because workers at the Ford plant at Iron Mountain and in the iron and copper mines are affiliated with the CIO.

This does not mean that Rep. Hook has all of labor's support in the Twelfth district. Attorney Bennett has again received the unqualified endorsement of the American Federation of Labor, which has a considerable number of members in Marquette and other cities in the district.

During his service in Congress, Bennett achieved a good record in his voting on labor legislation. On strictly labor issues, he has supported the interests of the working man, although he has not always pleased the CIO-PAC in his attitude on international questions that had no direct connection with labor legislation. That he has received the endorsement of the A. F. of L. is proof enough that his labor record is good.

Longer Work Week

JOHN D. SMALL, Civilian Production Administrator, forecasts that American industry will be installing longer work weeks before the end of the year in order to maintain the production that is needed to meet consumer demand. Mr. Small says there are 58,000,000 persons now gainfully employed in the United States and only 2,000,000 are jobless.

His statement again calls attention to the annoying paradox of industries' clamoring for labor while thousands of workers are drawing unemployment compensation insurance. The newspapers are filled with "help wanted" advertisements, but the 52-20 club membership remains virtually unchanged.

In the old days of personal self-reliance and ambition, men and women went where there were job and business opportunities, even if they had to live in a tent or adobe hut. But social legislation has softened the moral fibre of many going Americans. Now, they want the jobs brought to them. Maybe, we have made social gains; maybe we haven't. Only time will tell.

U. P. and Winter Sports

THE Upper Peninsula's bid for increasing prominence in the field of winter sports is given a boost by the decision of the National Ski association to rejoin the ### Federation Internationale de Ski.

Rejoining the international federation means that American riders will participate in the 1948 Olympics. The national ski championships this winter will be held at Ishpeming on the famous Suicide Hill, and the showing of ski riders in that competition will have considerable bearing on the final selection of the American ski riding Olympic team. As a result every great jumper with an eye towards the Olympics will compete at Ishpeming.

The Upper Peninsula's prominence in ski jumping can be matched in other divisions of winter sports. Speed skating, for instance, can well be developed to national and even international importance in the area north of the Straits of Mackinac. There is talk of developing a bobsled run in the Porcupine Mountains.

The coordination of all of these winter sports promotions is the objective of the recently created Upper Peninsula Winter Sports association.

When Will It Learn?

FOR a few months there have been no "major" strikes in this country. That may have given a large part of the public an extremely false idea of the labor situation.

Production in the most vital fields is still being delayed by labor disputes. The automobile industry is a case in point. No manufacturer makes a car from start to finish. All manufacturers buy certain essential parts from specialized factories. As a result, "little" strikes in concerns making such items as wheels, body hardware and electrical equipment have forced the car makers to close down time and time again. That's the main reason why motor car production is at only a fraction of the levels forecast when the war ended.

When will labor learn that only sustained, increasing production can make for fatter pay envelopes in the long run? When will it learn that the old slogan of "an honest day's work for an honest day's pay" is not so outmoded as some of our advanced thinkers believe? And when will it learn that inflated prices made necessary by vast wage increases without a comparable increase in the worker's productivity will never make for lasting prosperity? When will it learn that such a policy can only increase the cost of living?

VOX POP LETTERS

(Iron River Reporter)

The propriety of publishing a communication to The Reporter without an identifying signature was challenged by some members of the Iron River board of education and its superintendent in open meeting last week. The question is recurrent whenever criticism is involved.

Policies of newspapers vary but the greater number adopt the plan of publishing letters which are neither mischievous or venomous without signature of the author so long as the writer is made known to the newspaper. Subject matter is usually restricted to a discussion of public concern.

These newspapers believe many people who feel aggrieved and are in vulnerable employment or business position are denied use of the Voice of the People column unless they are given the protection of anonymity. Others are too timid to expose their identity but earnestly feel a wrong should be righted. This is especially true in public matters where administration may grow arrogant, careless, or unresponsive. The person accepting public employment or office must submit to the right of his employers (the taxpayers) to judge his work critically. The criticism may not always be fair or informed but the right to criticize cannot be questioned. The feet trod on are the first to cry out against this democratic principle.

People often forget that the newspaper, with its tradition as the public defender and prosecutor of the wrong-doer, has a responsibility it cannot take lightly. The newspaper must differentiate between the obnoxious writer with a design for embarrassment or personal injury and the sincere and well meaning writer.

The board of education was concerned about a letter by a parent criticizing consolidation which put nearly 60 grade students in one room.

The Reporter judged this writer to be honestly concerned with a public matter, and her letter of complaint was endorsed for publication. It was typical of the letters which flow into newspaper offices and appear in the public prints.

The Bronx: Which is correct, "The contents of this box (are) is?" . . .—E. A. S.

Answer: Contents is a plural noun and takes a plural verb. Correct: The contents of this box are . . .

Omaha: Please give me something official on the word "postoffice." Is my son correct in telling me that it should not be written as one word?—Mrs. F. M.

Answer: He is correct. According to the United States Style Manual the proper form is "post office." However, when used as an adjective, the hyphenated form is proper, as: a post-office regulation; a post-office address; a post-office box, etc. Inglewood: Please pronounce the words "toque" and "cloche."—Mrs. M. H. B.

Answer: Rhyme toque with "poke," as:

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Stockholm—The barometer of European elections since the end of the war has shown that the trend is not inevitably to the extreme left. That has been shown in some instances even when the voters went to the polls under the watchful eyes of Soviet occupying forces.

The municipal elections recently held here in Sweden followed the general European trend, but with typical Swedish moderation. The greatest gain was made by the Liberal party, which went from just under 13 per cent of the total vote to 15 1/2 per cent. The Communists gained less than expected, going from 10 to 11 per cent of the total. The Social Democratic party, in power for fourteen years, polled nearly 45 per cent, which is still 2 per cent above the vote they polled when they came into office. The chief losers were the conservatives, whose party members are dying off and are not being replaced by a younger generation.

—SOCIAL DEMOCRATS MODERATE—
The most significant fact about the election campaign was the moderation of the Social Democrats. They deliberately played down the issue of nationalization of insurance and of the oil industry. This was in response to a feeling of deep concern for traditional liberties, which might be jeopardized by too great an extension of state ownership.

The Liberal party goes very far in the direction of social reform—extension of every kind of social insurance, subsidies to provide housing for families with several children, and in many other ways. The programs of the Social Democrats and the Liberals are not so far apart, except that they split on nationalization and on the terms of the new loan agreement with Russia.

The Communist campaign approach was similar to that which Communists all over the world have been taking. Their campaign poster demanded, with eloquent simplicity, lower prices and higher wages. The chief line was to exploit the embarrassments of the government, which is trying very hard to check new wage demands and prevent inflationary price rises. The present is a particularly critical time in this effort, since the price index is almost at a point requiring an arbitrary increase in wages of 6 per cent. Therefore, the Communists agitated for wage increases.

—REDS SEEK COALITION—

They were somewhat handicapped, however, by the fact that last year's strike of metal workers, which they helped to promote, failed dismally. After five months and an expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars out of the union treasury, the strike was settled on the basis of the original demands made by the companies.

The direction in which the Communists here are moving reveals the typical strategy employed everywhere. Using any and all means, they would like to build their party by taking support from both the left and the right. Then, when both left and right fail to get a working majority of votes, either one or the other will have to turn to the Communists in order to form a coalition government.

That is the same tactic employed by Communists throughout Europe. Once inside a government, they have a position of strategic power, with access to confidential information which invariably finds its way to Moscow.

Conceivably, this could happen in Sweden's general election in 1948, but it's very unlikely. Some of the Social Democratic leaders have said that, if their party fails to get a working majority, they will refuse to try to form a government with the other parties. This would put the responsibility up to the right, which would be in a more or less impossible situation. It is far more likely that, in the spirit of reasonable compromise which prevails here, the Social Democrats and the Farmers' party would form a coalition government. Moreover, the Social Democrats are confident that they will win a clear majority in '48.

How seriously Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson's party takes the nationalization issue is a question. There are often hints that it is, for the most part, a stick behind the door to make private enterprise behave. Within the Social Democratic party, there have never been many Doctrine Marxists favoring socialization for the sake of socialization.

In the left wing of the party, there are those—and Minister of Commerce Gunnar Myrdal is one of them—who favor nationalization of industry, after the pattern of Sir Stafford Cripps in England, rather than nationalization. This implies a wide degree of control and regulation.

The Liberals, in their election campaign, and Liberal newspapers have attacked the regulations imposed by the present government. Many of these regulations have carried over from the war. As everywhere, the people are weary of the prolonged controls that restrict almost every phase of life. Yet, at the same time, the government recognizes the grave dangers in inflationary pressure at home and abroad. That is the dilemma of the party in power today.

toke. Cloche has the long "o" as in "hoe, toe" as: kloesh. While both words are French, the pronunciations given here are English.

West Los Angeles: I can't find meaning or origin of BAD used as a prefix to many German place names. Can you help?—R. M. H.

Answer: In German, "Bad" means "bath; watering place" as in Karlsbad. Bad Nauheim, Bad Reichenhall, etc. Bad is pronounced: baht.

From M. A. Geneva: Adds this "lony" to your hilarious collection. From a Montomery daily: "There, while sipping a brandy and soda night cap, a talented mocking bird burst into brilliant song." Sweet Adeline (hic.) no doubt?

THE NEED FOR CHANGE—There is a shortage of building material. When the material can be had the cost is prohibitive for the man whose finances are limited. Labor costs also are higher, adding to the sometimes exorbitant price for construction.

Dunathan

is insisting that the senate war investigating committee postpone its other work to conduct "a thorough inquiry" into home building delays. The senator has used strong words in condemning the government's home building program, and believes that the government is not helping but actually hindering the home construction program.

BUT WHAT CHANGE?—Just what an investigation by the Senate War Investigating committee would reveal other than already known facts which prevent new home construction is difficult to foresee. There may be dawdling and inefficiencies on the part of the government housing expediting agency, but even such a condition is not the answer to the highly unsatisfactory housing condition.

Accusations and name-calling are in no way going to bring a speedier flow of essential materials, nor will it lower the overall cost of house construction. Reclamations and bickering may occupy the attention of a homeless veteran—but it will not provide adequate shelter for himself and his family. Whether government agencies established at the demand of the lawmakers can help the situation one iota is problematical. We believe they can not.

AMERICAN BUSINESS—Why? Because the present home building program places the responsibility for new homes upon the government, which is unable to construct one building without the assistance of American business.

The government itself does not produce lumber, nails, plumbing fixtures, insulation, roofing, concrete and other materials essential for building. The government alone is as powerless to bring about a successful solution to the home building problem as are those who are now homeless.

The country must look to American business, American ingenuity and American enterprise if it expects to have its housing problem solved. Failure to solve the problem cannot be blamed to those who have nothing except advice to offer—whether that advice be good or bad is of little consequence. The building business may blame government restrictions and "red tape" for the present impasse, but at the same time it is equally apparent that much of the difficulty is due to failure to observe many of the regulations.

BUILDING MATERIALS—Admittedly there is a shortage of building materials, yet much of the material which might be going into home construction is flowing in a steady stream into other channels. Even a casual observer will see this in any community in which he lives, or through which he travels. In one

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

Denver, Colo.—Seventeen inches of wet, heavy snow, the worst September storm in the city's history, blanketed Denver today, disrupting traffic and communications as it blocked highways and snapped power lines under its sodden weight.

Lt. and Mrs. Raymond Bois of Gladstone are the parents of a daughter, born Sunday at St. Francis hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Williams, 1119 Washington avenue, whose twenty-fifth wedding anniversary was Saturday, were guests of honor at an enjoyable evening party, arranged in honor of the day and held at their home.

Miss Evelyn Oslund, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oslund of Groos, became the bride of Evert Clouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Clouse, also of Groos, at a ceremony performed Saturday morning, Sept. 26, at 9:30 o'clock in the parsonage chapel of Bethany Lutheran church, Rev. Dr. C. Albert Lund officiating.

20 Years Ago—1926
James Pilotte, aged 78, died suddenly of a heart attack about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Ironwood—Prospects of an early rescue of at least one of the 43 entombed miners appeared to night while hopes of reaching others of the group who today completed five days of underground confinement were heightened.

Michael Quinn, 1610 First avenue south, is reported to be seriously ill at his home. Mr. Quinn returned yesterday from Milwaukee where he consulted specialists.

Manistiquie township was a heavy loser in a fire which originated at the Bouschor farm, River road, Sunday afternoon, and spread to the township sheds nearby, completely destroying the sheds and their contents including two large rollers, a steam engine and other equipment.

place you will see a home without doors and windows to complete it, and in the next block you will see doors and windows being installed in a remodeled tavern, or in other buildings that, by no stretch of the imagination, can be classified as dwellings.

Is this the fault of the government? Or is it because many persons, through connivance and evasion, obtain materials which government regulations would deny them? Do some people need constant policing to make them understand the necessity for homes rather than other types of buildings? What would an investigation of the government's housing program reveal? Since when has "government" become the repository of all our ills?

In a democracy such as ours it is presumed that our people are the government. Government under no conceivable circumstance can assume the responsibility of a corner policeman, although efforts in cracking down on violators of the housing program have proved not only ineffective but highly unpopular.

INGENUITY NEEDED—All things considered, the best possible answer to the housing shortage would be a new approach to the problem. Rather than struggle with house-building piecemeal, as is now the case, suppliers and building contractors might well get together and make complete arrangements for the complete construction of a complete housing unit.

This may require radical departure from present methods, where carpenters are responsible for one portion, plumbers for another, electricians for another,

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—This is going to be what editors call a "think" column. Ordinarily, editors pay me not to think. I am supposed to report what Washington bigwigs think and talk about behind closed doors or in White House inner sanctums. Therefore, as far as today's column is concerned, editors won't get their money's worth.

This column is an attempt to examine the most vital question facing the nation—how we can avoid war with Russia.

Naturally I have been doing a lot of thinking about this. So have other people. Mr. Wallace's letter to President Truman on Russia has made people think more than ever before, which was one reason I published it.

A thinking public is the best guarantee possible of good government, and sound foreign relations; and personally I am of the opinion that the American people do more and clearer thinking about our problems than Washington realizes. Usually they are far ahead of their government.

Furthermore, if wars were left to the people, there never would be war. This is true not merely of the American people, but all people. In all the world's history I doubt if there ever was a war which was started by the people. It's just psychologically impossible for the people to initiate anything as drastic as war.

—RUSSIAN PEOPLE VS. KREMLIN—
War has to be made by kings or dictators or governments. That, of course, is the great danger about Russia. Unfortunately, in Russia—as with Germany in 1914 and 1938—a handful of men can start war, despite the fact that the Russian people are as sick and bored and disgusted with war as any in the world.

This fact, plus the giant army maintained by Russia, plus the frenzied rebuilding of munitions factories throughout the Soviet zone, is the basic reason for Jimmy Byrnes' get-tough policy. It is also why I have reluctantly agreed with him. After exercising considerable patience, Byrnes came to the conclusion that the only language understood and spoken by the Kremlin (not necessarily the Russian people) is a show of firmness backed by force.

However, you can't beat something with nothing. You can't cure a dangerous ill with no healing medicine. You can't remain on the edge of the battlefield making faces and waving weapons indefinitely. Sooner or later someone is going to retreat, advance, or fire a shot. Then the real trouble starts.

Therefore, without deserting the Byrnes policy of straight-arming Russia, we have to go further and find a more constructive policy that will occasionally let us rest our arm.

—5-YEAR PLAN—

In this connection I propose as my humble contribution to improving the peace of the world, a five-year plan for friendship with Russia.

The Russians are strong for five-year plans. This is a language they speak and understand. So let's take a page from their book and work out a five-year plan for peace and friendship. At the end of five years the plan renews automatically, unless one side gives notice—and that notice automatically would be a warning of potential war.

Aim of this five-year plan would be to cement good will between the Russian and American people, to put them on the same basis as the British and American people, to build up so much good will that no group of men in the Kremlin could hastily or wantonly declare war. The American and British people would kick out any president or prime minister who proposed war between them, and what the American and Russian people need is a five-year breathing space to start getting similarly acquainted.

Here are some of the planks I would put in the platform of our five-year plan for peace with Russia:

—MORATORIUM ON ARMS—

1. Declare a five-year moratorium on all armament. This would leave the Red army much bigger than ours, but our navy vastly bigger than theirs, in addition to which we have more airplanes, more factories, and—not to be sneezed at—the atom-bomb.

2. Teach the Russian language for at least one year in every American high school, and English for one year in the schools of Russia. Language is the greatest aid of all to understanding.

3. Bring the Moscow ballet to the USA for a tour of our leading cities; also the Red army chorus. Simultaneously send the Metropolitan grand opera, the Rockettes, and the Tuskegee singers for a tour of the USSR.

4. Establish one American newspaper in Moscow printed in the Russian language to explain the American viewpoint to the Russian people; with a similar Russian paper published in New York to explain Russia to the American people. There would be no censorship of either paper.

5. Establish an American radio station in Moscow and a Russian station in New York to broadcast the respective viewpoints of the Russian and American peoples, together with cultural music and drama. Each station would be absolutely free to say anything it wished for five years. This would be an advantage to the Soviet since there are few receiving sets in Russia. However, we should have the right to distribute a certain number of sets to Russians.

Most girls do a clever job of making up—yet young fellows think the paint on their cheeks needs retouching.

We know that meat is under the ceiling—and we have a hunch some of it is under the counter.

Dreams have a habit of not coming true when you spend all your time dreaming.

Schedule Annual Red Cross Meet

The annual meeting of the Delta County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held in the council chambers in Escanaba city hall at 8 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 9. It was announced yesterday by George Lindenthal, chapter chairman.

Purpose of the meeting is to elect a board of directors, to consider reports which will be given by the service chairmen, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting. The reports of the service chairmen will present a summary of the services to the Delta county community by the Red Cross during the past year.

Paper Mills Form Corporation For By-Product Usage

Madison, Wis.—Organization of a company to exploit new processes for the manufacture of useful by-products from sulphite paper mill waste has been disclosed with the filing of articles of incorporation with the secretary of state's office.

Sulphite Products corporation will have its headquarters at Appleton, the papers show. Its purpose will be to manufacture and develop "all kinds of products from waste sulphite liquor and other by-products of the pulp and paper manufacturing industry," under methods discovered by joint research efforts sponsored by Wisconsin paper manufacturers and the state department of sanitary engineering at the Institute for Paper Chemistry at Appleton.

Signers of the articles of incorporation were listed as A. B. Hansen of Northern Paper Mills, Green Bay, John G. Strange of the Institute, and H. A. Rothchild of the Kimberly Clark corporation, Neenah.

Capital was given as $30,000, presumably to be subscribed by the paper mills which have financed the research and experimental projects thus far.

CIVIC THEATRE PLANS REVIVAL

First Meeting Of Year Scheduled To Be Held On Monday Evening

The Escanaba Civic Theater will hold its first meeting of the year Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the second floor auditorium of the City Recreation building. This meeting is open to any who are interested in little theater work, and an appropriate program has been arranged.

Like so many activities in Escanaba, the Civic Theater program had to be curtailed during the war years. Before that time, however, the group had presented a variety of plays such as "Holiday," "The Queen's Husband," "Outward Bound," "Night of January 16th," "Best Years," "Aria da Capo." They had presented a series of radio plays on the "Tuesday at Eight" program.

Each year, to encourage the amateur playwright, they sponsored a one-act play writing contest for the whole Upper Peninsula area, and produced the two winning plays accepted for publication after production. Now the group is preparing to start work again, since the community sees few stage plays and because little theater work is a satisfying experience with a lot of attendant fun for those who participate.

Actors, directors, costumers, electricians, stage-set workers and publicity writers are needed. Escanaba has plenty of talent and resources, Civic Theater sponsors report. If there is sufficient interest and enthusiasm to back it up, they believe the Civic Theater can become well established and as well-known as other such organizations in this region.

HEALTH CLINIC WILL BE HELD

Crippled Children Will Receive Examination
Here Oct. 8-9

An orthopedic clinic for the examination and assistance of crippled children and older persons to the age of 21 will be held in Escanaba Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 8 and 9, with Dr. E. R. Elzinga, St. Luke's hospital, Marquette, in charge.

The Delta county health department, the county Lay Health Committee, Michigan Society for Crippled Children and the Escanaba Rotary Club are the sponsors of the clinic which will be held in cooperation with the Michigan Crippled Children Commission. The clinic will be located in the Escanaba Junior high school gymnasium.

Attendance at the clinic is limited to crippled children who have been notified of the clinic and given an appointment, and others who may have recently moved into the county. In the event there are cases which have not been notified, an appointment may be arranged by telephoning No. 844, county health department office, any day this week. Appointments are necessary so there will be no delays in the schedule of examinations.

The territory to be served includes all of Delta county, and patients from adjoining counties may attend.

If x-rays are ordered by the examining surgeon, they will be taken without cost to the patient. A representative of the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation will consult with patients 16 years of age and over regarding vocational training within the capacity of their physical handicap.

Orthopedic nurses, medical social workers, and a physical therapist will assist in conducting the clinic, and persons needing new appliances, or the adjustment of present appliances as ordered by the orthopedic surgeon will be given that assistance.

The volunteer workers of the Delta county Lay health committee who will assist at the clinic are Mesdames C. L. Riegel, general chairman, Addis Colbert, Emerson Harvey, A. W. Erickson, Leonard Windling, Eli Sauve, Doris Haglund, and Alma Christensen, R. N.

Johnnie Bohunk Is Jack Of All Trades In Alaska

BY PHIL RICH

At Johnnie's place in the Kantishna Hills, Alaska.—You have to meet Johnnie the Bohunk; Johnnie the trapper, Johnnie the undertaker, doctor and coroner; Johnnie the prospector; Johnnie the real Alaskan to know genuine hospitality. He's all in one and a lot more besides. We wouldn't want to trade our five days with him for almost anything in this world.

Johnnie has so many titles—official and unofficial—that it would take some time to enumerate them. For instance, he is the watchdog of the north end of McKinley park and has radio communication with them; he cares for numerous travelers and friends on a minute's notice and he does it all so easily—talking all the while with a flow that is baffling.

Self-Styled 'Bohunk'

Perhaps I should say here that Johnnie Busia—who is usually called Boosha by most folks, although he calls himself Boosheea, (with a short a),—is a Croat. He's been up here some 25 years. He's a self-styled Bohunk, which he says means non-Christian—"but I believe in a Supreme Being."

We pulled into his place in late afternoon and he crossed the river on his hand-built cable to meet Lou Corbly and his truck and hear the news—he knew he had guests. "I brought you some guests," said Lou. "Can you take care of them?" Johnnie smiled a broad smile at Lou and quickly replied, "Yes." He likes Lou and takes him at his word. So we were in.

Johnnie bid us come over to his house. Lou navigated that stream in the Army truck through deep, swift water and on up the slippery bank. No truck I ever saw could do it—especially over these boulders but he had that ten-wheel drive with special creeper gears and nothing seemed to be too difficult.

Johnnie told us to unload our duffle and leave it in the outer shed to his home. Most of these log houses have an outer utility shed for supplies, wood, etc., and Johnnie has a good house and cleaner than any trapper's cabin I have been in to date. In fact he has two log cabins and plenty of sleeping space and two caches for food—these are little houses built up on poles to keep away from bears and other animals and the poles are well tinned at the bottom. Access is by ladder. Besides this Johnnie has the town hall for his garage and a few other buildings he either owns or looks after. He is located on Moose creek before entering military service from which he was discharged on March 7 of this year. He served for three years in the Army Medical Corps with the rating of technical sergeant and spent 21 months in the Pacific theatre in a medical laboratory performing autopsies and preparing medical slides for examination.

where Eureka enters it. These streams all dump into the Kantishna. It is 91 miles back there from the park hotel.

Town For a Song

In the early days of 1905 Joe Dalton and Joe Quigley with their partners had set out for the Kantishna hills from opposite directions. Apparently neither knew of the other. They found gold, staked claims and created a gold rush to the area. Something like 2,500 people were there at one time it is claimed, but the bubble burst and the two Joe's had the valuable ground sewed up. It was a minor operation as gold finds go but something in excess of $500,000 has been taken out. Johnnie came along when things were being abandoned—that's how he got the town hall and some other buildings for a song.

Johnnie was glad to see the Corblys. He at once wanted to serve some of his "Kantishna champagne"—his own brand of mild beer. And he set to "popping bottles"—quart size and passing out cups. He radiates friendliness of a form too seldom seen. He not only makes you feel completely at home but he also seeks to please and have you do just what you would like to do and lets you know he likes it too.

Entering his cabin we met his friend from the hills, Prospector Frank Donnell, who says he's the "California tramp" and now we call him "Long Frank," because he's so tall and slim. Frank is no tramp, but a metallurgist and millwright, who has some claims up in the hills near Johnnie where he works every year to "prove up." He was down for a weekly visit. "I get lonesome out there," he told us, "and so I come down to see Johnnie." The Finn Walter, was down from his hill workings where he and his partner Rudy, another Finn, were driving a shaft in the rocks and all hands stayed on for dinner and the night, except the Corblys who had to get back early because the road was under construction in spots and there were some bad rock piles to skirt or move.

Ate Like Kings
Frank proceeded to help Johnnie arrange the supper and it was a good one. And, in fact, we ate like kings all the time we were there. Johnnie seemed to have a never-ending supply of good food.

Johnnie listened to our story, knew what we wanted and nodded his head in assent. He'd take us in his pickup and we'd go out for pictures; maybe replenish his meat supply—now zero. "Johnnie get you the pictures," he said, and Johnnie did and how.

Roy Overpack Will Talk At Iron River

Iron River—An outline of the functioning of a Chamber of Commerce, which may replace the Iron River Business Men's Association next year, will be presented to the merchants and professional men of the association at their October dinner meeting next Tuesday evening at Mertins cafe.

The speaker will be Roy Overpack, secretary-manager of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, an organization which has helped fill every available factory site with local industry at the Delta county seat city and is now endeavoring to erect new structures which will attract additional employment sources to Bay de Noc.

Overpack will explain how the Chamber has served Escanaba and other cities and how it might function effectively here to the advantage of the entire Iron River district. If a Chamber is established, merchants and civic leaders of other west side communities will be invited to join in making it a district organization.

P. T. A. Council—The Escanaba P. T. A. Council will meet Tuesday at 4 p. m. in the sitting room of the junior high school.

Arraigned In Court—Twenty bicycle riders of Escanaba who have violated one or more of the bike traffic regulations were arraigned in Sgt. Phil Bruce's bike court yesterday morning at the police station. Improper parking, riding on a bike, failing to stop at arterials, and operating without a license were the principal offenses.

Public Contributions—The Delta county chapter of the American Red Cross reports that the public contributed generously to the Red Cross appeal for children's garments to aid two unfortunate families. A small supply of children's garments is now on hand to assist future cases, although there is a shortage of shoes for needy children.

Menominee County Farmer Is Killed

Menominee—Charles Berglund, 33, a Menominee township farmer living about one mile north of Birch Creek, was fatally injured late yesterday afternoon when he was knocked from his bicycle by a car driven by Michael Mayers, 74, of Daggett township, on US-41 just north of Birch Creek. Berglund suffered fractures of the skull and a leg and internal injuries and died an hour later in St. Joseph hospital.

Mayers and his wife, who was riding with him, told Sheriff Edward J. Reindl that Berglund, who was riding north ahead of the Mayer car, made a sudden left turn across the highway to enter a side road leading to his farm and that the accident was unavoidable.

Prosecuting Attorney Michael J. Anuta said no inquest would be held, but said he would request the State Police to give Mayers an examination for driving ability in an effort to determine whether his license, because of his age, should be revoked. Mayers told the officers he had been driving a car for 28 years and had never before had an accident.

Opening Days

For most hunters this week is comparable to the trout season opening for the anglers. Tuesday brings the first day of hunting for the rabbit hunter and the upland bird hunter and Saturday is the opening day for the wildfowler. The Robin Hoods will also greet October 1 by unlimbering their bows in their own 36 day quest for deer and bear.

On October 1 the hunters open a 20 day season on ruffed grouse (partridge), prairie chicken and sharp-tailed grouse (sharpies) and chicken will be legal game only in the eastern counties of the peninsula. The day is the opening of a 15 day season on woodcock and also the start of the rabbit hunter's five month long season.

Saturday, October 5, the opening day for the duck hunters ushers in a 45 day season on ducks.

Former Residents Buy Dairy Plant At Lake Mills, Wis.

John Labre and his brother-in-law, Roger Cholette, both of Milwaukee and former residents of this city, have purchased the Lake Mills Dairy Plant at Lake Mills, Wis., it was announced this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Labre and their nine-year-old twin sons, Phillip and William, and Mr. and Mrs. Cholette have moved to Lake Mills, where they will occupy a house owned by Simon Tarnutzer former owner of the dairy plant.

Mr. Labre has been employed in Milwaukee as the foreman in a steel plant. Mr. Cholette has been associated with a company which installs escalators.

geese, brant, coot, sora and other rails and gallinules.

Hunters of rabbits, ruffed grouse, prairie chicken and sharp-tailed grouse may begin their day's shooting at 6 a. m. Central Standard Time but waterfowl and woodcock hunters must confine their shooting to the period between one-half hour before sunrise and one-half hour before sunset.

Following are the opening and closing times of waterfowl shooting as they will be each week during the season for hunters in the west half of Delta county in Central Standard Time, which will be the time standard in use here when the season opens: Oct. 5, 5:21 a. m. to 4:55 p. m.; Oct. 12, 5:30 a. m. to 4:43 p. m.; Oct. 19, 5:38 a. m. to 4:32 p. m.; Oct. 26, 5:46 a. m. to 4:22 p. m.; Nov. 2, 5:55 a. m. to 4:12 p. m.; Nov. 9, 6:03 a. m. to 4:04 p. m.; Nov. 16, 6:12 a. m. to 3:57 p. m.

Conservation officers will set off a bomb at Portage Point to signal the opening for the concentration of hunters who go through the marshes there.

Bow and arrow hunters may not combine their archery season with the small game season. Conservation officers have stated that when hunting with bow and arrow, they may not legally tote a shotgun along.

Safe Gunning
The need for care in the handling of all firearms and especially sporting arms cannot be over-emphasized. "Safety First—Always!" should be the motto of the hunter. Only safe gun handling can be relied upon to keep tragedy out of the days afield.

The following "10 Commandments of Safety" provide a set of rules which, if observed, will go a long way in keeping one of the greatest of sports safe:

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
2. Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, in to your automobile, camp and home.
3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
6. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to shoot.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water. 10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

Game Or Fish?

Among sportsmen considerable argument is taking place as to the status of game and fish—which is the more plentiful.

"That's a toughie to answer," declares Charley Gillham, chief of the sportsmen's information department of Western-Winchester. "One thing about game, you can see it, but it is difficult to peer beneath the surface of the waters and see the fish situation."

On good hunting days when the dogs are working well, or there is a migration of ducks on, game may appear to be plentiful. When fish are biting, the lakes and streams seem to be well populated. How about the poor shooting and fishing days?

With no birds in the sky, or in the coverts, disgusted Nimrods are quick to declare that there is no game. Not so with the fisherman. He knows he has caught fish in this lake or stream before, so he goes on the assumption that

Home Economics
Club Conducts County Rally

The first Delta County rally day for Home Economics clubs was held Wednesday at the recreation center, South 14th street in Escanaba.

About one hundred women were present, representing clubs from Dark River, Sunny Side, Bark River, Schaefer, and Pine Ridge.

Mrs. Opal Thompson of Cornell, county chairman presided at the meeting. The morning session was called at 10:30 o'clock and was attended by officers and project leaders of the various parts discussed and a form drew up which will cover the next 15 months, to December 1947. Miss Rose Forno, Marquette, home demonstration agent was in charge. Miss Forno acted for Miss Robertson, home demonstration agent supervisor who was unable to attend.

At noon a pot luck lunch was served. The "lunch" turned out to be a "spread" no shortages could be seen.

At 1:45 o'clock the afternoon session was called by Mrs. Thompson.

E. A. Wenner, county agent, showed slides taken at the U. P. State Fair; showing the Home Economics and 4-H booths. These were much enjoyed by all.

Group singing followed with Mrs. Harrod, of Cornell at the piano.

Mrs. Thompson gave a very interesting report on "Home Makers Camp" week which was held at Chatham.

A very interesting demonstration of textile painting was given by Mrs. Clifford Olson and Mrs. Emil Ahlin of the Sunny Side club, Bark River. They went thru the whole process, mixing of paints, cutting stencils, laying material, placing the stencil, painting and cleaning the brushes. Many questions were asked and all very ably answered. This particular work held much interest in the Home Economics booth at the U. P. State Fair.

Mrs. Zena Kemp Williams, library consultant, of Michigan State Library, with an U. P. office at Marquette, gave a timely discussion on the county library plan for distribution of books in rural areas.

The Home Economics clubs will begin the fall work with the October meeting. This is an extension course put out by the Michigan State College, at East Lansing. The work is all interesting and worth the time spent. Any woman is eligible to join a club, the cost is free. Watch your paper or ask your neighbor about the date and place of the first meeting of your particular group and join the club.

New members or visitors are welcome.

Milwaukee Girl
Is The Bride Of
Ray Michaud

Returning yesterday to Milwaukee, where they will make their home, were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Frederick Michaud, who have been visiting in Escanaba and the Copper Country on their wedding trip. Their recent marriage took place in Holy Angels Catholic church in Milwaukee.

The bride is the former Jacqueline Mary Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Schaefer of Milwaukee. Mr. Michaud is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Michaud of this city.

White gladioli, asters, and chrysanthemums decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony on Sept. 21, which was performed by the Rev. L. R. Schiffer. Lee Andrews was the organist and vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an olive green peplum suit, black accessories, and a white feather hat. Her shoulder spray was of white carnations, roses and chrysanthemums.

Miss Lorraine Schneek, the bride's attendant, wore a brown suit with matching accessories, a winter-white feather hat, and an autumn spray of tea roses and chrysanthemums.

Emil Michaud performed the duties of best man for his brother. The ushers were Donald Marvic of Escanaba and William Bauer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schaefer chose a black crepe dress. A corsage of pink carnations matched the pink feathers in her hat.

Asters and gladioli in autumn shades decorated the Schaefer home for the dinner which was served to immediate relatives. Later, the bride cut the three-tiered wedding cake at a reception for 60 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Michaud will reside in Milwaukee, where the bridegroom will attend Marquette University. He received his discharge as a First Lieutenant in the Marine Air Corps after four years service. Previous to that, he attended St. Joseph high school in Escanaba, and the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton.

The bride is a graduate of Rufus King high school in Milwaukee, and has been employed in the offices of the Milwaukee County Boy Scout Council.

Out of town guests at the wedding included Miss Eva Michaud, Miss Anne Michaud, and Donald Marvic of Escanaba; Miss Mildred Michaud of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Peak, Winchester, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schaefer, West Bend, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Knickel, Bruce, Knickel, Misses Joan and Joyce Knickel, Campbellsport, Wis.; Mrs. Elizabeth Schaefer, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. John F. Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. William Schaefer, Miss Mary Remell, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kral, Mr. and Mrs. John Louis Schaefer, all of Kewaskum, Wis.

Stacey Holt and
John G. Erickson
Wed In Chicago

Mrs. John C. Holt of Chicago announces the marriage of her daughter, Stacey, to John G. Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Erickson, 821 Lake Shore Drive.

The wedding took place Friday, Sept. 27, in Chicago. The simple ceremony at St. Angela's rectory was followed by a wedding breakfast in the Sheridan Room at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. The bridegroom's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Erickson, attended the couple.

Mr. Erickson, who served in the U. S. Navy during the war, is a well-known attorney in Escanaba. Mrs. Erickson is known to many here as a niece of the late Miss Flora E. Holt of 420 Second Avenue south.

The couple will be at home early in October at 815 Lake Shore Drive.

Mr. Erickson was in the army in Italy and North Africa. He received his discharge in October of last year.

June Sundberg And
Robert L. Roberts
Married Recently

Messiah Lutheran church in Chicago was the scene of a September wedding which united in marriage Miss June Sundberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sundberg of Chicago, and Robert L. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Roberts, 406 South Sixth street.

Ferns, palms and gladioli banked the altar for the 4 o'clock ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Nels Lundgren.

The bride chose a traditional white satin for her wedding gown, which was made with a full skirt extending in a train. The fitted bodice had a scalloped sheer yoke at the neckline. Her fingertip veil was attached to a satin coronet, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis tied with streamers.

Mrs. Bruno Karkula was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Irene Grozewski and Mrs. Ted Altice, sister of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Karkula wore a gown of yellow taffeta, and carried aqua carnations tied with yellow streamers. The bridesmaids gowns were of aqua taffeta, and their flowers were yellow carnations. All three attendants wore short veils attached to flower halos.

Leo Beauchamp performed the duties of best man, and the ushers were Ted Altice and Hugh Roberts.

For the wedding, Mrs. Sundberg wore a black dress with maroon accents, and Mrs. Roberts chose a blue dress with brown accessories.

The wedding dinner was served at Nielson's Restaurant in Chicago. Fresh flowers and streamers decorated the table, which was centered with a tiered cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

The couple left later for a wedding trip to Southern Indiana, the bride selecting for her traveling costume a brown gabardine suit with smoky-white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will reside at Houghton, where the bridegroom is a student at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. He is a graduate of Escanaba senior high school, class of 1941.

The parsonage of Central Methodist church was the scene of a ceremony yesterday afternoon which united in marriage Miss Phyllis Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse J. Gardner, 212 South 17th street, and Thomas Duchaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Duchaine of Chicago.

The couple exchanged vows before the Rev. Karl Hammar in the presence of immediate relatives.

For her wedding, the bride wore an aqua dress accented by a shoulder spray of red roses. Black accessories and a black sequin hat completed her costume.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Betty Casey, and Mrs. Arthur Duchaine. Miss Casey wore a pink dress with gold accessories, and a corsage of orchid carnations. Mrs. Duchaine wore black accessories with her fuchsia dress, complemented by a corsage of mixed flowers.

Following the afternoon ceremony, 20 guests attended a wedding supper at the Chicken Shack.

Following their wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, Mr. and Mrs. Duchaine will reside in Escanaba, where the bridegroom is employed by the Hewitt Grocery company. He received his discharge from the army after four years service, three years of which he spent overseas. Mrs. Duchaine is a graduate of the Escanaba high school.

Upper Peninsula Teachers Will Meet In Escanaba Oct. 3 And 4

Famous Speakers Are Booked For Convention

Teachers from Michigan's entire Upper Peninsula will attend the Region Seven Conference of the Michigan Education Association at Escanaba Oct. 3 and 4.

An extensive program of speakers has been scheduled, headlined by Lt. James C. Whittaker, who was a member of the famed Rickenbacker crew. In his address, "We Thought We Heard the Angels Sing," Lt. Whittaker describes the ordeal of many days afloat on a raft in the Pacific Ocean following the forcing down of the Rickenbacker plane.

Eugene B. Elliott, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Lee B. Durham, president of the Michigan Education Association, both will address general sessions of the Region Seven Conference.

Another headline speaker to appear in Region Seven is Clarence Sorenson, geographer and news commentator, who will speak on the subject "We Re-Meap the World."

Orchestra, Glee Club Booked

Music for the general session programs will be provided by the Escanaba High school orchestra, directed by Albert Shomoto, and by the St. Joseph High school Glee club, directed by Sister Cella.

Registration headquarters for teachers attending the Region Seven Conference will be in the Escanaba Junior High school and registration will begin Thursday morning, October 3 at 8 o'clock. The first general session program will take place in the William Oliver Memorial Auditorium, Junior High school, at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Throughout all of its eight regions, the Michigan Education Association has undertaken this year particular efforts to keep the Conference abreast of national and state affairs. The Conferences are "in-service" education for teachers who attend; and schoolmen feel that at no time in the history of the Conferences has the need for their enlightenment and inspiration been so keen. "Atom-ic age" is regarded by Michigan educators as no idle phrase, and they point to national and world news and the questions of their own pupils as ample evidence of this.

As in the past, the Regional Conferences have been officially designated state teachers' institutes by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction; teachers may therefore attend without loss of pay.

Three Types of Program

Programs are divided among general, division, and section types. The general program is for all who attend a Regional Conference and will present outstanding state and national speakers. Divisions—the larger classifications of education effort, such as adult education and P. T. A. work—will hear prominent educators and laymen discuss topics of the times, as well sections, which consist of groups organized about individual study subjects, such as geography and arithmetic.

A portion of the general session in each region has been given over this year to a discussion of the proposed sales tax amendment, Proposal No. 2 on the November 5 ballot.

This year's eight Regional Conferences open October 3 with the Petoskey, Region Five, and Escanaba, Region Seven, institutes. They continue throughout October on Thursdays and Fridays, ending with the Detroit, Region One, and Grand Rapids, Region Four, Conferences on October 24 and 25.

TUESDAY IS THE PARTRIDGE DAY

Gunners' Go Signal To Be Up At 6 a. m., Birds Scarce

Tuesday is a big day for Michigan hunters, the opening of the small game season for the gunners and the beginning of the bow and arrow season on deer and bear. For the shotgun toting hunters, October 1 marks the opening of shooting at rabbits, ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse, prairie chicken and woodcock.

The birds will be the targets in the early season for chasing the bunnies doesn't come into its own until later in the fall when colder weather allows the hound dogs to do their best work.

The woodcock season is a 15 day season, Oct. 1 to Oct. 15 inclusive. Four of the doodle birds are allowed in one day and eight in possession. Because the woodcock is one of the migratory birds covered by international treaty, hunters for this illusive cock of the woods will have to observe the one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour before sunset shooting hours.

Rabbit hunters may take five in one day and are limited to a possession limit of 10 and a total kill of 50 for the whole season, which does not end until March 1.

Grouse hunters must observe a bag limit of three per day, six in possession and 15 for the season.

Bow and arrow hunters may take one deer and one bear. The deer must be a male with at least three inch antlers. Conservation officers, in answer to questions of the archers, say that they must separate their small game gunning activities from their big game stalking. It is not legal to carry a shotgun in hopes of picking up a bird or rabbit at the same time that the long bow is carried with the intention of killing deer.

An increased supply of ammunition for shotgunners and earlier killing frosts are to the liking of the small game hunters. The frost and recent rains beat down the vegetation so that hunters have a better chance of seeing their game than would have been the case if the foliage was still growing.

Nahma Woman Is Claimed By Death

Mrs. Joseph Nedean, 60, of Nahma, a resident of the Nahma and Stonington communities all her life, died at 12:10 p. m. yesterday in St. Francis hospital. She has been ill for the past two months. She was born April 14, 1886, at Stonington.

Surviving are the husband, and the following children, Mrs. Joseph Kesick, Isabella; Mrs. Lawrence McCoy, Payment; Mrs. Albert Nedean, Caroline and Doris of Nahma; and Edgar of Gladstone; three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Chronister of Sault Ste. Marie; Mrs. Carl Nyberg of Stonington; Mrs. Frank Bouras of St. Jacques, and one brother, Frank Macabee of Manistiquie.

The body was removed to the Alto funeral home in Escanaba in preparation for burial, and will be returned to the family home at Nahma this afternoon.

Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Tuesday in Indian Point church, and burial will be in Stonington cemetery.

Indianapolis Shops Cut $1 Haircuts

Indianapolis—(AP)—A crack in the price of $1 haircuts came in Indianapolis today.

One downtown union shop reduced the price to 75 cents. The proprietor said he could no longer "buck the competition of the 65 and 75 cent non-union shops," and the manager of an organization which operates three large non-union shops which have been charging $1 said: "We're going back to 75 cents Monday."

"We probably could cooperate with the union if the other non-union shops would but they're not doing it and we can't afford to," he said.

Most union shops, however, are remaining on the dollar schedule.

Tourist Influx Hits Isolated Canyon Oasis Of Tiny Indian Tribe

BY MURRAY SINCLAIR

Supai, Grand Canyon, Ariz., Sept. 28 (AP)—The relentless march of civilization creeping up on the Havasupai, one of the world's smallest and most remote tribes of Indians.

This year these "people of the blue green waters" have been given a tourist manager and the Indian Field Service is after money to build a road into their dream-land reservation at the bottom of the cataract branch of the Grand Canyon.

Never have they numbered much more than 300. Today about 200 live in their shining green, rock-bound oasis.

In their mud-hut village crime is virtually unknown; the closest policeman is seven hours away. No one commits suicide; there are no insane. They have three or four chiefs instead of one.

No one knows for sure where the Havasupai came from, or how long they have been living in their present home.

Everything reaching the reservation must be carried or packed in by horse. The government urged the Indians to move closer to civilization. They refused. A railroad offered them $100,000 for their 500-acre reservation, new homes above the canyon and jobs for all. They didn't want the white man's money, houses and jobs.

A bulletin issued on the Havasupai agency by the Office of Indian Affairs of the U. S. Department of the Interior says: "Man inhabited cataract canyon ages ago during the time of the dinosaur, elephant and ibex, as testified by drawings in the rocks not many miles from the Havasupai settlement."

All these animals are supposed to have been extinct in this region 30,000 years or more ago. Yet no human is supposed to have lived here more than 15,000 years ago.

So, it is argued, either man lived in the land of the Havasupai 30,000 years ago, thereby upsetting ethnological beliefs, or these animals lived as recently as 15,000 years ago, thereby upsetting geological and natural history beliefs.

To which Prof. Edwin D. McKee of the University of Arizona's geology department says: "We definitely know man was not living here at the time of the dinosaurs. Grand Canyon man never saw a living dinosaur."

Michigan Mined Out Of Profitable Coal

BY NEVA ACKERMAN

Lansing (AP)—Over 100 years of coal mining operations in Michigan will come to an end October 1 with the closing of "Big Chief"—the Robert Gage coal mine No. 10—at Unionville.

Along with 30-odd abandoned mines—each marked by high "dunes" of slack coal cinders, "Big Chief" is declared to be the final evidence that Michigan is "mined out" of profitable coal.

A small factor in the total fuel consumption of the state, Michigan coal, nevertheless, has filled many a home stove or furnace since the first mine was opened at Jackson in 1835.

State conservation department figures indicate that a total of 46,248,846 tons of coal has been produced to date in Michigan—but the state's present yearly consumption is more than 20,000,000 tons.

Conservation department geologists said Michigan coal—a soft bituminous type—has never been able to compete favorably with out-of-state coal because of its quality and the high mining costs, but it has had wide use locally and as a supplement to coal from other states.

The Unionville mine, last and most modern of the mines of the state, had a daily peak production of 1,300 tons which has now dwindled to about 350 tons. Where there were once 375 miners employed 116 are now winding up the digging operations.

More than 1,400,000 tons have been produced at "Big Chief" since it was opened in 1933. Most of the coal was marketed in the Saginaw Valley and Thumb with the lump coal used for domestic purposes, the mine run (unscreened) used by railroads for steam, and the washed slack for steam plants, particularly in the sugar factories in the area. The coal was also used by some of the state institutions for heating.

The mine, with its modern concrete, steel and brick surface structures, has two shafts which reach from the surface to the four-foot vein of coal below. Above the ground are up-to-date coal dumps, tipple sales, screens, coal washing plant and loading booms.

The opening of the first coal mine in Spring Arbor township of Jackson county in 1835, marked ed not only the first mining operation but also the first stage in Michigan's industrial progress, the department said.

Later mines were opened in Ingham, Shiawassee (1871) Eaton, Calhoun, Arenac (1876), Genesee (1878), Huron, Tuscola (1889), Saginaw, and Bay (1895) counties until in 1906, 38 mines were in operations in the state.

Peak of the coal production was reached in 1907 when 37 mines produced 2,035,950 tons. However, the value was only $1.80 a ton.

The department experts said that while coal has been mined off and on for more than a century, the industry prospered only during times of war, depression or strikes in other fields, or when coal from other states was too difficult or costly to obtain in 1922, widespread strikes in the coal producing states sent Michigan coal prices to a profitable $5.05 a ton.

In addition to its home heating and limited industrial uses, Michigan coal has been used to manufacture gas and its pyrite impurity (iron sulfide), "fool's gold" has been used to manufacture sulfuric acid.

COMING HERE*Expect To Arrive In Munising Sunday,
October 6

Munising—About 40 members of the DeMolay Commandery, Knights Templar, Grand Rapids Rapids, using about eight or ten cars, will stop in Munising on Sunday, October 6 on an Upper Peninsula sight-seeing and color tour sponsored by their organization. It was announced yesterday by Lewis J. Merwin, secretary of the Munising Chamber of Commerce.

Harry D. Jewell, Grand Rapids attorney, in charge of arrangements for the trip, in a letter to the Chamber of Commerce, said the tour will begin on Saturday, October 5 at Grand Rapids and proceed to Ludington, where they will board a car ferry to cross Lake Michigan for Keweenaw, Wis. and plan to spend the first night of the tour at Green Bay.

On Sunday October 6 the party will breakfast at Green Bay and start on their trip through Marquette, Menominee, Escanaba, Gladstone, Rapid River, Trenary and to Munising.

The tour is expected here for noon lunch, Sunday, and plan a boat trip to Pictured Rocks during the afternoon returning to Munising for dinner Sunday evening. The tour members will stay in Munising over night and breakfast before starting on their trip to Marquette, Negaunee, Ishpeming, L'Anse and up through to Ontonagon where they will stop for the night.

Other points included Wakefield, Bessemer to Ironwood for the night, Tuesday. From Ironwood they plan to go to Watersmeet Wednesday, to Iron River, Crystal Falls, Iron Mountain to Green Bay and Manitowish where they will catch the ferry for Ludington and return by way of Muskegon to Grand Rapids on Thursday.

The distance to be covered on the tour is expected to be about 1220 miles.

Former Resident Of Munising Dies
In California

Munising—Chief of Police Frank Chase has received word of the death of his brother-in-law, Fred Chartrand, in Santa Rosa, Calif., September 26.

Mr. Chartrand was 45 years old. A former resident of Munising, he moved to California about 15 years ago.

Survivors also included are his wife, a son, Fred, and a daughter, Lila, a brother, Adolph Chartrand of Munising, and a brother, Joseph of California.

Burial will be made Monday, September 30, in Santa Rosa, Calif.

Money Floats Into Man's Hands, But Owner Reclaims It

Munising—There are some honest people still left on earth. Leonard (Tony) Ohlen, who runs a local tavern found out Saturday morning.

Frank Flemming, an insurance agent in town, was calmly walking down Munising avenue near the First National Bank Saturday morning and saw, what he thought looked like a $20 bill. He stooped down, picked it up and sure enough that's just what it was. Then, to his surprise, he saw more money floating through the air down among the cars parked along the avenue. He immediately started rounding it up as it settled to earth and when counting it found he had in his hands six $20 bills and one $10 bill. A total of $130 floated into his possession out of thin air.

Honesty is the best policy his conscience must have told him, as he promptly marched down to the police station and turned the money over to Chief of Police Frank Chase, telling him the situation.

Later in the morning thinking the owner might back track places he had been the police chief went up near the bank and saw Ohlen walking around looking for something he couldn't find. He inquired and Ohlen said he had lost $150. He had put the money in his pocket, the inevitable hole was there which it seeped through, and he was out his $150 and was looking for it, he said. The chief said he had 130 of it and while they were standing discussing the thing, a girl, whose identity isn't known, walked up to the chief and said she had just found a 20 bill and wanted to turn it over to him to see if he could find the owner. Total money lost, $150. Total money recovered, $150.

MUNISING BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Claire Sandell and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Kincaid are spending the week end in Green Bay and will attend the football game there.

Jack and George Gollinger and Ray Campbell spent Friday evening in Negaunee seeing the football game.

Edward Pawlowski arrived home Friday from a seminar in Wisconsin to spend the week end visiting relatives and friends.

Miss Gretta Knox of Marquette is spending the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Knox. Don Baxter, Mike Elavski, Ben Bernard, Peter Johnson and Bob Gattis, who are attending school in Marquette, are spending the week end visiting friends and relatives in Munising.

Russel Bernard spent Friday evening visiting in Negaunee and attending the football game.

Mrs. Edward Murk and daughter, Bonnie Jean, returned yesterday to their home in Milwaukee after a week's visit with friends and relatives.

Stella Vinskoski and Dora Maki left yesterday for Green Bay where they will attend the Bear-Packer football game.

County Engineer
Sees Bull Moose

Munising—George Depew, Alger county engineer, reported seeing a bull moose on the Pictured Rocks trail about 12 miles east of Munising about noon Friday.

Mr. Depew said he saw the moose on a curve down on the Miner's Falls plain and he was standing in a clearing. He got within 150 feet of the moose and said he could have easily taken a picture of him as he was in the sunlight and standing broadside. It was a big fellow, Mr. Depew said, and didn't seem in any hurry but slowly walked away when the car approached.

A moose was also reported seen near Rapid River about a week ago.

Locker Room Theft Cleared Up Saturday

Munising—Munising city police, with the help of Mather high school's football coach, Robert Villeneuve, Saturday morning cleared up the theft of money and jewelry taken from the locker room of the high school gym while the varsity football team was at practice Thursday evening. Brought into custody in juvenile court were two small boys, one six years old and one nine years old.

Recovered Saturday morning as a portion of the loot was part of the money, one ring, a cigarette lighter, and two hunting knives, presumably purchased with part of the money from a local hardware store. The watch, reported stolen, and the rest of the money has not been located as yet.

This was the first offense for both boys. They had entered through the broken glass of the door between the gym floor and locker room.

walk!" Mr. Fukai cried, "Leave me here!"

Father Kleinsorge got his paper suitcase with the money in it and took Mr. Fukai up pickaback, and the party started for the east parade ground, their district's "safe area." As they went out of the gate, Mr. Fukai, quite childlike now, beat on Father Kleinsorge's shoulders and said, "I won't leave." Irrelevantly, Father Kleinsorge turned to Father La Salle and said, "We have lost all our possessions but not our sense of humor."

The street was cluttered with parts of houses that had slid into it, and with fallen telephone poles and wires. From every second or third house came the voices of people buried and abandoned, who invariably screamed, wailed, formal politeness, "Tasukete kure! Help, if you please!"

The priests recognized several ruins from which these cries came as the homes of friends, but because of the fire it was too late to help. All the way, Mr. Fukai whimpered, "Let me stay."

The party turned right when they came to a block of fallen houses that was one flame. At Sakai bridge, which would take them across to the east parade ground, they saw that the whole community on the opposite side of the river was a sheet of fire; they dared not cross and decided to take refuge in Asano park, off to their left.

Father Kleinsorge, who had been weakened for a couple of days by his bad case of diarrhea, began to stagger under his protesting burden, and as he tried to climb up over the wreckage of several houses that blocked their way to the park, he stumbled, dropped Mr. Fukai, and plunged down, head over heels, to the edge of the river. When he picked himself up, he saw Mr. Fukai running away.

Father Kleinsorge shouted to a dozen soldiers, who were standing by the bridge, to stop him. As Father Kleinsorge started back to get Mr. Fukai, Father La Salle called out, "Hurry! Don't waste time!"

So Father Kleinsorge just requested the soldiers to take care of Mr. Fukai. They said they would, but the little, broken man got away from them, and the last the priests could see of him, he was running back toward the fire.

Mr. Tanimoto, fearful for his family and church, at first ran toward them by the shortest route, along Koi highway. He was the only person making his way into the city; he met hundreds and hundreds of people fleeing, and every one of them seemed to be hurt in some way. The eyebrows of some were burned off and skin hung from their faces and hands. Others, because of pain, held their arms up as if carrying something in both hands. Some were vomiting as they walked. Many were naked or in shreds of clothing. On some undressed bodies, the burns had made patterns—of undershirt straps and suspenders and, on the skin of some women (since white repelled the heat from the bomb and dark clothes absorbed it and conducted it to the skin), the shapes of flowers they had had on their kimonos.

Many, although injured themselves, supported relatives who were worse off. Almost all had their heads bowed, looked straight ahead, were silent, and showed no expression whatever.

After crossing Koi bridge and Kannon bridge, having run the whole way, Mr. Tanimoto saw, as he approached the center, that all the houses had been crushed and many were afire. Here the trees were bare and their trunks were charred.

He tried at several points to penetrate the ruins, but the flames always stopped him. Under many houses people screamed for help, but no one helped; in general, survivors that day assisted only their relatives or immediate neighbors, for they could not comprehend or tolerate a wider circle of misery.

The wounded limped past the screams, and Mr. Tanimoto ran past them. As a Christian he was filled with compassion for those who were trapped, and as a Japanese he was overwhelmed by the prayer of being unhurt, and he prayed as he ran, "God help them and take them out of the fire."

He thought he would skirt the fire, to the left. He ran back to Kannon bridge and followed for a distance one of the rivers. He tried several cross streets, but all were blocked, so he turned far left and ran out to Yokogawa, a station on a railroad line that de-toured the city in a wide semicircle, and he followed the rails until he came to a burning train. So impressed was he by the time by the extent of the damage that he ran north two miles to Gion, a suburb in the foothills.

All the way, he overtook dreadfully burned and mangled people, and in his guilt he turned to the right and left as he hurried and said to some of them, "Excuse me for having no burden like yours."

Near Gion, he began to meet country people going toward the city to help, and when they saw him, several exclaimed, "Look! There is one who is not wounded."

At Gion, he bore toward the right bank of the main river, the Ota, and ran down it until he reached fire again. There was no fire on the other side of the river, so he threw off his shirt and shoes and plunged into it. In midstream, when the current was fairly strong, exhaustion and fear finally caught up with him—he had run nearly seven miles—and he became limp and drifted in the water.

He prayed, "Please, God, help me to cross. It would be nonsense for me to be drowned when I am the only uninjured one." He managed a few more strokes and fetched up on a spit of land.

Mr. Tanimoto climbed up the bank and ran along it until, near a large Shinto shrine, he came to more fire, and as he turned left to get around it, he met, by incredible luck, his wife. She was carrying their infant son.

Mr. Tanimoto was now so emotionally worn out that nothing could surprise him. He did not embrace his wife; he simply said, "Oh, you are safe."

She told him that she had got home from her night in Ushio just in time for the explosion; she had been buried under the parsonage with the baby in her arms. She told how the wreckage had pressed down on her, how the baby had died.

She saw a chink of light, and by reaching up with a hand, she worked the hole bigger, bit by bit. After about half an hour, she heard the crackling noise of wood burning. At last the opening was big enough for her to push the baby out, and afterward she crawled out herself. She said she was now going out to Ushida again.

Mr. Tanimoto said he wanted to see his church and take care of the people of his neighborhood association. They parted as casually—as bewildered—as they had met.

Mr. Tanimoto's way around the fire took him across the east parade ground, which, being an evacuated area, was now the scene of a gruesome review: Bank on rank of the burned and bleeding. Those who were burned moaned, "Mizu, mizu! Water, water!"

Mr. Tanimoto found a basin in a nearby street and located a water tap that still worked in the crushed shell of a house, and he began carrying water to the suffering strangers.

When he had given drink to about 30 of them, he realized he was taking too much time. "Excuse me," he said loudly to those near by who were reaching out their hands to him and crying their thirst. "I have many people to take care of." Then he ran away. He went to the river again, the basin in his hand, and jumped down onto a sandspit.

There he saw hundreds of people so badly wounded that they could not get up to go farther from the burning city. When they saw a man erect and unhurt, the chant began again, "Mizu, mizu, mizu."

Mr. Tanimoto could not resist them; he carried them water from the river—a mistake, since it was tidal and brackish. Two or three small boats were ferrying hurt people across the river from Asano park, and when one touched the spit, Mr. Tanimoto again made his loud apologetic speech and jumped into the boat. It took him across to the park. There, in the underbrush, he found some of his charges of the neighborhood association, who had come there by his previous instructions, and saw many acquaintances, among them Father Kleinsorge and the other Catholics. But he missed Fukai who had been a close friend.

"Where is Fukai?" he asked. "He didn't want to come with us," Father Kleinsorge said. "He ran back."

When Miss Sasaki heard the voices of the people caught along with her in the dilapidation at the tin factory, she began speaking to them. Her nearest neighbor, she discovered, was a high school girl who had been drafted for factory work, and who said her back was broken. Miss Sasaki replied, "I am lying here and I can't move. My left leg is cut off."

Some time later, she again heard somebody walk overhead and then move off to one side, and whoever it was began burrowing. The digger released several people, and when he had uncovered the high school girl, she found that her back was not broken, after all, and she crawled out.

Miss Sasaki spoke to the rescuer, and he worked toward her. He pulled away a great number of books, until he had made a tunnel to her. She could see his perspiring face as he said, "Come out, Miss."

She tried, "I can't move," she said. The man excavated some more and told her to try with all her strength to get out. But books were heavy on her hips, and the man finally saw that a bookcase was leaning on the books and that a heavy beam pressed down on the bookcase. "Wait," he said, "I'll get a crowbar."

The man was gone a long time, and when he came back, he was ill-tempered, as if her plight were all her fault. "We have no men to help you!" he shouted in through the tunnel. "You'll have to get out by yourself."

"That's impossible," she said. "My left leg is cut off." The man went away.

Much later, several men came and dragged Miss Sasaki out. Her left leg was not severed, but it was badly broken and cut and hung askew below the knee.

They took her out into a courtyard. It was raining. She sat on the ground in the rain. When the downpour increased, someone directed all the wounded people to take cover in the factory's air raid shelters. "Come along," a torn up woman said to her. "You can hop."

But Miss Sasaki could not move, and she just waited in the rain. Then a man propped up a large sheet of corrugated iron as a kind of lean-to, and took her in his arms and carried her to it. She was grateful until he brought two horribly wounded people—a woman with a breast sheared off and a man whose face was all raw from a burn—to share the simple shed with her.

No one came back. The rain cleared and the cloudy afternoon was hot; before nightfall the three grotesques under the clanking piece of twisted iron began to smell quite bad.

The former head of the Noboricho Neighborhood association, to which the Catholic priests belonged, was an energetic man named Yoshida. He had boasted, when he was in charge of the district air raid defenses, that fire might eat away all of Hiroshima but it would never come to Noboricho. The bomb blew down his home and a joist pinned him by the legs, in full view of the Jesuit mission house across the way and of the people hurrying along the street.

In their confusion as they hurried past, Mrs. Nakamura, with her children, and Father Kleinsorge, with Mr. Fukai on his back, hardly saw him; he was just part of the general blur of misery through which they moved. His cries for help brought no response from them; there were so many people shouting for help that they could not hear him separately. They and all the others went along.

Noboricho became absolutely deserted, and the fire swept through it. Mr. Yoshida saw the wooden mission house—the only erect building in the area—go up in a lick of flame, and the heat was terrific on his face. Then flames came along his side of the street and entered his house. In a paroxysm of terrified strength, he freed himself and ran down the alleys of Noboricho, hemmed in by the fire he had said would never come. He began at once to behave like an old man; two months later his hair was white.

As Dr. Fujii stood in the river up to his neck to avoid the heat of the fire, the wind grew stronger and stronger, and soon, even though the expanse of water was small, the waves grew so high that the people under the bridge could no longer keep their footing.

Dr. Fujii went close to the shore, crouched down, and embraced a large stone with his usable arm. Later it became impossible to wade along the very edge of the river, and Dr. Fujii and his two surviving nurses moved about 200 yards upstream, to a sandspit near Asano park. Many wounded were lying on the sand.

Dr. Machii was there with his family; his daughter, who had been outdoors when the bomb burst, was badly burned on her hands and legs but fortunately not on her face. Although Dr. Fujii's shoulder was by now terribly painful, he examined the girl's burns cautiously.

Then the law down. In spite of the misery all around, he was ashamed of his appearance, and he remarked to Dr. Machii that he looked like a beggar, dressed as he was in nothing but torn and bloody underwear.

Late in the afternoon, when the fire began to subside, he decided to go to his parental house, in the suburb of Nagatsuka. He asked Dr. Machii to join him, but the doctor answered that he and his family were going to spend the night on the spit, because of his daughter's injuries.

Dr. Fujii, together with his nurses, walked first to Ushida, where, in the partially damaged house of some relatives, he found first aid materials he had stored there. The two nurses bandaged him and he them. They went on. Now not many people walked in the streets, but a large number sat and lay on the pavement, vomited, waited for death, and died. The number of corpses on the way to Nagatsuka was more and more puzzling. The doctor wondered: Could a Molotov flower basket have done all this?

Dr. Fujii reached his family's house in the evening. It was five miles from the center of town, but its roof had fallen in and the windows were all broken.

NEW SKI TOW
BEING BUILT

Club Making Plans For Active Program
This Winter

The Gladstone Ski club is already preparing for the coming season and when the proper weather rolls around there will be two towls in operation at the sports park on the Days River. A new towl will be built on the front hill.

A steel framework for the lower part of the towl is being constructed and will be erected on a concrete base. It is being designed so that it may be removed when the golfing season rolls around again.

Work on the towl is being done by members with Ray Gazlay in charge.

Ski buttons have been ordered and a member drive will be planned later. Consideration is being given to toboggan runs and it is possible that there will be one this coming winter.

Officers of the club are: Harold Mackle, president; William Norcus, vice president; Mrs. Glenn Caswell, treasurer, and Betty Ann Paine, secretary. Directors are Ray Gazlay, Harvey Cowell, Dr. George Kelly, Walter Vandeweghe, Fred Siebert and George Mathison.

BADLY INJURED

Escanaba Couple Struck
When Walking On Road Shoulder

Andrew Yanitsky, 33, and his wife Jenny Yanitsky, 304 S. Seventh Street, Escanaba, were seriously injured Friday evening about 11 o'clock when struck by an auto driven by Elmer Hall of Route 1, Ensign on U. S. 2-41 about 200 feet south of the Allard gas station at South Gladstone.

Mr. Yanitsky sustained a fracture of one leg while both of his wife's legs were broken. The accident occurred shortly after the couple had started to walk to Escanaba after having been forced by tire trouble to leave their car near the filling station.

The auto in front of Hall began stopping, presumably to pick up the couple. As they were meeting a car Hall was unable to go around the vehicle on the pavement and unable to stop, swung out on the shoulder to avoid striking the auto in front of him.

The couple were walking on the shoulder of the road just where Hall swung out. Both were struck and carried some distance by the auto.

Police said Hall's auto had poor brakes. He was given a ticket for traffic violation and it is possible that a more serious charge may be placed against him later.

Michigan State Police and Gladstone City police investigated the accident.

Yanitsky is a foreman for the A. E. G. Electric company of Ann Arbor and Escanaba, which is engaged in the wiring of rural homes for REA in Delta and Alger counties.

Mrs. Pauline Brassick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pierce, Detroit, Mich., became the bride of Herbert Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ryan, Escanaba, at a recent ceremony at All Saints Catholic church, city. The nuptial mass was read by Rev. Fr. Joseph Schaul, pastor.

For her wedding the bride chose a brown gabardine suit with brown accessories. Her shoulder corsage consisted of cornflowers and stephanotis.

Miss Jean Ryan, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a gray gabardine suit with black accessories and a corsage of cornflowers and stephanotis.

The groom was attended by Robert Pierce, brother of the bride.

A wedding dinner for 40 guests was served at the Ryan home. In the evening a reception was held for 100 guests. An all white wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom centered the serving table. A wedding dance was held at Hess's after which the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Detroit.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, Norway, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Caron, Masonville; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pierce, Madelyn Pickard, Gladstone; Mrs. Elsie Green, Cheboygan, Wis.; and Mr. and Mrs. Hilding Peterson, Gladstone.

Lamb-Heslip
Miss Patricia Mary Lamb, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shafner, Detroit, became the bride of Neil Heslip, son of Mrs. Sarah Heslip, Kalamazoo, at a 9 o'clock ceremony on Wednesday, September 11, at St. Francis de Sales church with the Rev. Father Duncan reading the marriage service.

Roses and carnations decorated the altars of the church for the ceremony.

The bride wore an ivory satin three skirted gown with long pointed sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her full length veil fell from a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book and beads. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Al Malpass, sister of the bridegroom, wore a gown of blue chiffon, long gloves, a blue Juliet cap with a veil of matching material and carried pink roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Jean Acker and Vivian Hall, Detroit, were attired in blue broadened gowns, Juliet caps to match their gowns and carried yellow and blue flowers.

The little flower girls, Kay Pratt and Gay Cotoir, nieces of the bride, wore pink and white dresses and carried pink and white roses.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to take this means of expressing our heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown us during our bereavement, the loss of our beloved father Andrew Bannister. We especially wish to thank those who sent flowers, those who donated the use of their cars, the pallbearers and those who in so many other ways assisted us at this time. The memories of these acts of kindness will ever remain with us.

Signed:

WOMEN'S CLUB
MEETS TUESDAY

Prominent Club Women
Of State To Be At
Opening Session

The Manistique Women's Club will officially launch activities for the season next Tuesday afternoon at Lakeside school, with the occasion being featured as "Federation Day."

Present on that occasion to assist with the program and to meet the members will be Mrs. Clyde Urquhart, Ironwood, district president; Mrs. Joseph Kangery, Ironwood, second vice president of Michigan State Federation and state chairman of club extension; Mrs. Francis Furlong, Newberry, chairman of fine arts division, and Mrs. Othie C. Brennan, past president of the district and member of state nominating board.

The local committee hopes that members of the club will take advantage of this opportunity to meet these outstanding club women who represent them in the state and district and thus bring the club closer to its statewide organization.

A number of new members have been added to the club roll this year and will be welcomed into the organization at Tuesday's meeting.

Music for this meeting will feature Margaret Burgess, local high school student who has studied this summer at the Interlochen Music Camp.

An interesting club program for the year has been planned with outstanding local musical and speaking talent and noteworthy speakers from other communities participating. The yearbook for 1946-47 containing the complete program is now ready and will be distributed among the members at Tuesday's meeting.

Negro Woman Has Her 27th Offspring

Columbus, O.—(AP)—A 65-year-old Negro woman and the day-old daughter she said was her 27th child were reported "doing very nicely" tonight at University Hospital.

Dr. John Holzapfel, hospital resident physician, reported that the elderly mother, Mrs. Mary Jones, had shown him a family bible in which her own birth date, 1881 and that of her 27 offspring, including six sets of twins, were listed. Twenty-one, she said, are living.

Dr. Holzapfel said he was attempting to locate marriage and birth certificates so the births could be documented "for medical annals."

GRAMS IS PROMOTED

Houghton—Milton H. Grams, son of the late Henry Grams, former manager of Paline & Webster Co. office in Houghton, has been promoted to the post of chief metallurgist of the Motor Wheels Chemical and Physical Laboratory in Lansing. Mr. Grams' mother now resides in Duluth.

In assuming his new duties Mr. Grams, veteran Motor Wheel employee, takes over the post formerly held by A. P. Schweizer, who recently was appointed executive engineer.

First Methodists
Hold Reception
For J. I. Bellaires

Mr. and Mrs. John I. Bellaire were guests of honor at a reception at the First Methodist church, the occasion being in recognition of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

The evening's entertainment consisted of an informal program which consisted of community singing, led by Rev. H. G. Cowdick; singing by Mrs. Paul Hanson; a humorous reading by Mrs. Alex Robertson, and a talk by Judge W. G. Stephens.

Mr. Stephens at the conclusion of his remarks, presented the Bellaires with a gift of money as a token of esteem and good wishes from those present.

At the conclusion of the program, which was held in the church parlors where lunch was served. Here the tables were specially decorated for the occasion with tapers, bouquets of yellow pom poms and tulleman roses. A wedding cake graced the center of the table.

The Bellaires' wedding anniversary occurred last Monday.

JOOF Grand Lodge Office To Visit Here Wednesday

L. Mearl Leach, Grand Herald of the Grand Lodge JOOF of Michigan, will pay the Manistique Odd Fellows lodge an official visit next Wednesday evening according to announcement by Hubert Norton, secretary of the local lodge.

Mr. Leach's trip is being made at the request of the grand master and chairman of the promotion committee of the Grand Lodge. He is also scheduled to visit the lodge at Gould City on Monday evening and at Newberry on Tuesday night.

McNALLY SHOP
SOON TO OPEN

Loss Not As Heavy As Was At First Estimated

A re-check of the loss sustained by the McNally Electrical Appliance company in a fire Friday afternoon, reveals that while the loss of goods stored in the second floor of the building will be heavy, it will be far from total.

It was found that much of the stock that was still in cartons, while damaged somewhat with water, was otherwise unharmed. Goods on the ground floor was covered with canvas as soon as the department arrived and the loss was not so heavy.

Much rebuilding will have to be done to put it in shape. The roof was especially hard hit and will probably have to be rebuilt.

The shop will be closed for a few days until after the insurance adjuster has made an adjustment of the loss.

Garments Won't Lose Color ---

Women, we are told, are much more sensitive to color than men and that is why they like to have their garments as near the color they were when they purchased them. To them we give the assurance that our cleaning process not only removes dirt, but the cleaning is done with absolutely no harm to the color of the fabric. That is why garments cleaned by us look so fresh and bright.

Eskymos Beat Norway, 12-7; Braves Swamp Manistique, 40 To 2

VALIANT RALLY BRINGS VICTORY

Escanaba Shows Power But Is Plagued By Fumbles

After spotting the Norway Vikings a 7-0 lead in the second quarter, the Eskymos made a valiant rally to take a 12 to 7 victory at Norway yesterday in an exciting football game. The winning touchdown was scored less than two minutes before the end of the game.

A rash of fumbles like those that plagued the Eskymos last week at Ironwood kept the Orange and Black team in trouble numerous times yesterday, but the Eskymos finally overcame their own deficiencies to roar back and snatch victory.

Norway kicked off to the Eskymos and Johnson fumbled, but Belanger recovered and advanced to the 24-yard line. Gustafson made nine yards on the first play and Belanger made a first down on the 35-yard stripe. Gustafson ploughed for 10 more and another first down. Belanger fumbled but recovered for a two-yard loss and on the next play, Gustafson fumbled after a five-yard advance, Norway recovering on their own 45-yard line.

Vikings Score First
Devine, slippery Norway half-back, and DeBakker, his running mate, fashioned two first downs for the Vikings before they were halted on the 33-yard line, but Norway's punt was fumbled by Peterson, Lindstrom recovering for the Eskymos on the one-yard line.

Gustafson gained five through center and then Schills punted out, but Norway was holding on the play and Escanaba gained a first down on their 12-yard line. Peterson gained four yards and Gustafson followed with another 10-yard plunge as the first quarter ended.

Gustafson advanced in two plays to the 36-yard line with another first down but on the next play Maraska snared an Escanaba pass and raced it back to the 30-yard stripe. DeBakker slipped a perfect pass to Danielson who was brought down on the three-yard line. DeBakker and Devine were stopped for no gain in two plays but on third down Marchetti scored on a sweeping dash around his own left end. Hill kicked the point after touchdown.

The Eskymos came back with a vengeance after the kickoff went out of bounds. Starting from their own 40, the Eskymos launched a spirited offensive. Gustafson broke through the line for 14 yards and Belanger gained eight to advance to Norway's 36. Gustafson carried to Norway's 27 for a first down. Peterson gained four yards in two plays and Gustafson gained three more but on fourth down, Peterson's plunge missed a first down by inches and the Vikings took over on their own 18-yard line.

Launch Air Attack
Devine and DeBakker gained 11 yards on two plays, but the Eskymos stiffened and Danielson's punt sailed to the Escanaba 33, where it was fumbled but recovered by the Eskymos.

It was at this point that the Eskymos took to the air with a determined aerial attack that brought their first touchdown.

Gustafson gained six yards on a line play and then a pass to Peterson was good for five yards and a first down. Peterson gained five off right end and took a pass from Belanger for a short gain.

Time was running short and the Eskymos drew a five-yard penalty for a fourth time out. Belanger passed to Friets for 18 yards and a first down on Norway's 40. Another time out penalty cost an additional five yards, but Belanger pitched to Gustafson who made a leaping catch on the 27-yard line.

A screen pass, Belanger to Peterson, picked up seven yards and on the next play, the same screen pass, Belanger to Peterson, accounted for the remaining 20 yards to the goal.

Trailing 7-6, the Eskymos tried another pass in an effort to even the count but it was one pass too many and it was knocked down by the Vikings.

The half ended on the first play after the kickoff.

The Eskymos opened the second half as if they were going to march right down for a second touchdown, but it fluked out. Gustafson took the kickoff on his 25-yard line and returned to the 44. On the first play, the big sophomore fullback drilled the big sophomore fullback drilled his way for 17 yards to the Norway 39-yard line. The attack fizzled at this point, however, and the Eskymos neglected to punt on fourth down.

Belanger Races 40 Yards
The Escanaba line, playing brilliantly for the first time this season, smothered Norway's running attack and Danielson punted to the Escanaba 32. Schills' pass was intercepted on the 42-yard line by Maraska of Norway. DeBakker passed to Danielson for a first down on the 32-yard line, but the Orange team again halted the Norway offense.

Belanger picked an opening on a reverse and sprinted 40 yards for the longest gain of the day, finally being hauled down on the Norway 25. Gustafson split the center for 11 yards to the 26-yard stripe but Belanger fumbled and Norway recovered on the 23.

Peterson returned Norway's punt to the Escanaba 45-yard line as the third quarter ended with

POWER PLAY—The Gladstone Braves unleashed terrific power in walloping Manistique, 40 to 2, yesterday afternoon. Here is how the Braves zipped through for long gains against the Emeralds. The ball carrier, No. 40 is Dave Le-

Gault. No. 50, leading interference, is Gillis, and No. 47, sprawled on the ground, is Young. Manistique lads in the picture are Minor, No. 10, and Frankovitch, No. 60.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Plans for the development of the Upper Peninsula sub-regional Golden Gloves boxing tournaments are progressing nicely and two of the preliminary meets have already been wrapped up. A third is under negotiation and definite allocation of this franchise may be made within a week. The opinion plan calls for seven sub-regional tournaments in advance of the U. P. finals at Escanaba and although it may not be possible to organize all seven this season, that is the goal for which the Golden Gloves committee is aiming.

Big Eighth Gives Senators 4 and 3 Win Over Red Sox

Boston, Sept. 28 (P)—A three-run eighth inning gave the Washington Nationals a 4-3 win over the Boston Red Sox today and robbed Dave Ferriss of his 26th victory.

The Sox were leading 3-0 when Ferriss turned over the pitching assignment to Lefty Mickey Harris in the fifth.

Wally Moses batted all three of the Boston runs, two in the third with a single and one in the fifth with his sixth homer of the season.

The Nationals picked up a run in the sixth on a combination of a walk and a couple of singles and three in the eighth on hits by Buddy Lewis, Micky Vernon, Stan Spencer and Red Evans with the aid of Johnny's Pesky's second error of the game.

Washington . 000 001 030—4 11 0
Boston . 002 010 000—3 8 2
(Wynn and Evans; Ferriss, Harris (6), Zuber (8) and H. Wagner.

The Vikings still in front, 7-6.

The Eskymos made a first down in three plays at the start of the final period, with Peterson gaining 11 yards following an offside penalty, but the Vikings held for downs on the next series. DeBakker picked an opening for a 12-yard sprint to the Escanaba 49.

Danielson punted on fourth down to the Escanaba 33-yard line.

Winning Touchdown
Gustafson gained four at left tackle and then Belanger passed to Friets, who took the ball on the run but fumbled as he was tackled. Gomerac recovered for Escanaba and the play was good for 34 yards to the Norway 30-yard line.

In a mighty lunge through the line, Gustafson advanced 15 yards. Peterson added nine more and Gustafson made a first down on the five-yard line. Belanger scored through the center of the line. The pass for the extra point was intercepted.

Only a minute and a few seconds remained to play. The Vikings received and started a desperate passing rally. DeBakker passed to Devine for 25 yards and a first down on the Escanaba 39-yard line, but with only 47 seconds of time remaining Biehler intercepted the next pass and the Eskymos held the ball until time ran out.

The statistics heavily favored the Eskymos, who made 15 first downs to seven for Norway. The Eskymos amassed 222 yards on running plays and 104 on passes and the Vikings gained 56 yards net on running plays and 52 yards on passes.

The starting lineup follows:
Escanaba Pos. Norway
Friets I E Larson
Schmelter I T DeClark
Biehler I G Parolini
Buckland C Hill
Gardner RG Calcaterra
Schills RT Carlson
Gomerac RE Ahlrad
Johnson RB Danielson
Peterson HB Devine
Gustafson FB Marchetti

Official: Chambers, referee. LaFunesse, umpire; Barry, linesman.

C. H. Brennan, secretary for the Michigan Association of the AAU, controlling organization for amateur sports in the state, has given his unqualified endorsement of the Golden Gloves promotional plan in the Upper Peninsula. All territories allocated for sub-regional meets and the franchises therein will be confirmed by the AAU. Tournaments definitely set and their sponsors are Marquette, sponsored by the Marquette Mining Journal, the Marquette Lions club and the Marquette Amvets, and Manistique, sponsored by the Escanaba Daily Press and the Manistique Lions club.

The Ironwood tournament is not yet wrapped up but is in process of negotiation and it appears fairly certain that a sub-regional meet will be held there this winter. Nothing definite has been heard yet from Houghton, Sault Ste. Marie, Iron Mountain or Menominee but it is likely that at least two of these cities will conduct sub-regional tournaments. The preliminary tournaments do not necessarily have to be two-day tournaments although some of them will be. Marquette plans a two-day tournament and should have little difficulty securing a large entry list.

The Escanaba Lions club has ordered its new portable, steel ring and delivery has been promised immediately. The ring is manufactured by the Safway Steel Scaffold company, Milwaukee, and boxing experts claim it is the best ring made. A new ring mat and canvas also will be purchased. The entire layout will cost in excess of $750. The equipment will be made available to other communities on a nominal rental basis. Planking and ropes from the present ring will be salvaged for the new ring.

Hit and Miss—Kingsford surprised the football officials at a Kingsford-Menominee game Friday night by paying them off at $15.20 per man, highest rate reported at any U. P. high school in years. Another blessing from night football. Take a second look at that Kingsford-Menominee score . . . and weep . . . 42 to 0, Menominee. The shocker of the week end football roundup was, of course . . . Stambaugh 12, Iron Mountain 7.

Young Smothered As Irish Outclass Illinois, 26 to 6

BY JERRY LISKA

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 28 (P)—Notre Dame's fighting Irish opened their season today by completely smothering famed Buddy Young as they trounced once-tried Illinois, 26-6, before a record 75,119 spectators in Memorial Stadium.

Young, who was expected to be a constant touchdown threat, contributed an 11-yard dash as his best effort and was just another player as the Irish methodically ground out two touchdowns each in the second and fourth periods.

The Illini, who last week trimmed Pittsburgh, 23-7, penetrated Notre Dame territory only once in three quarters and were lucky to count a touchdown in the last two minutes on a 63-yard desperation pass from Julie Rykovich to End Bill Heise.

It was an alert, well-manned Irish eleven which took control of the contest in the second quarter when Emil (Red) Sitko's 83-yard run to the Illinois two broke the back of the obviously outplayed Illini.

Two plays later, Halfback Bob Livingstone dove over his left guard for a touchdown and the issue was settled even though Fred Early missed the point try.

Every year, more than 3,500 lives are lost in farm fires alone.

TROJANS HAVE VETERAN TEAM

Marinette Team Fast And Scrappy; Kick-off At 2:00

The St. Joseph Trojans will make their 1946 football debut here this afternoon, meeting Our Lady of Lourdes of Marinette at the Escanaba Athletic field at two o'clock.

Although the Trojans are making a belated start in the football whirl, grid prospects at the St. Joseph school are above normal and the 1946 team is fashioned around a number of veterans.

The Lourdes team is coached by Jab Murray, former Green Bay Packer star of bygone years, and reports from Marinette indicate that the Shamrocks are fast and rugged. They dropped a close decision to St. Norbert's high school of DePere in their opener a week ago.

Main weakness of the Trojans is lack of reserve strength. Coaches Fran Farrell and Clarence Needham report. This has proved a handicap in practice sessions because of the inability to present a formidable second team to scrimmage the varsity. In general this has been compensated to some extent by scrimmaging one side of the line against the other.

The starting lineups for today's game follows:

| Pos.       | Lourdes | Pos.       | Lourdes |
|------------|---------|------------|---------|
| Stropich   | LE      | Vogel      | LT      |
| Douglas    | LT      | Stadola    | LG      |

TRIBE IS EASY FOR TIGERS, 7-3

Feller And Newhouser Close Season Today At Briggs Stadium

Detroit, Sept. 28 (P)—Fireballer Bob Feller watched from the bench today as the Detroit Tigers scored an easy 7 to 3 victory over his Cleveland Indian mates.

Thus Rapid Robert left to the final day of the season his attempt to break Rube Waddell's modern league strikeout record. Feller fanned six batters in yesterday's game here and had been expected to hurl a few innings today to best Waddell's official mark of 343. He will face Hal Newhouser in tomorrow's game.

Ray Flanigan and Bob Lemon divided Cleveland's pitching duties. Rookie Flanigan being charged with the loss. Hal White was the winner.

Ed Robinson collected two home runs for the Indians and Jimmy Bloodworth aided the Tiger cause with one. Hank Greenberg, leading the league with 44, failed to connect.

A crowd of 12,799—football to the contrary—turned out in hope of seeing either Feller crack the strikeout mark or Greenberg move farther ahead in the American league slugging departments.

Greenberg did manage to lash out a double in the fifth inning to boost his runs-batted-in for the season to 127.

The big league season closes at Briggs stadium Sunday with a mound re-match between Feller and Detroit's southpaw ace, Hal Newhouser. Prince Hal bested Feller in every department at Cleveland last Sunday, but the

Gladstone Shows Punch In Bidding For UP Grid Honors

Gladstone, Mich. — Gladstone high school rolled to a 40-2 victory over Manistique yesterday afternoon and served notice that they will be a strong contender for peninsula honors again this fall.

The Braves scored in every quarter, chalking up two touchdowns in both the first and second periods, one in both the third and fourth and Valind added four extra points from placement.

The opening score came early in the first period. Manistique received and after making a first down fumbled, Gladstone recovering. Bizeau lateralled to LeGault who went 30 yards to the 5. Gillis went the remaining distance. Valind's kick was not good.

Unable to gain after the kickoff, Manistique punted. LeGault made 8 and Gillis made it a first down on a run around left end. Valind passed 20 yards to LeGault who took it on the 30 and outran the Manistique secondary to the goal. Valind's kick was good. Gladstone 13; Manistique 0.

The Braves scored again in the second quarter on a 60-yard drive, interrupted at one time by a 15-yard penalty. Gillis and LeGault alternated to take the ball to the 22. Gillis made 5 and passed to Johnson for 13 to the 10. Gillis drove 9 to the one-yard line and then drove over for his second score. Valind's kick again was good. Score: Gladstone 20; Manistique 0.

Emeralds Get Safety
Manistique was forced to punt after the kickoff and LeGault ran from his own 35 to Manistique's 35. Four successive passes to Johnson put the ball on the 2-yard line and Young, right half drove in shortly before the end of the first half.

In the third period Gladstone scored again. A Manistique punt was downed on the 8-yard line of Gladstone. LeGault went over tackle and with nice blocking broke into the clear and outraced the Manistique secondary to the goal line. Valind's placekick again was good.

The final Gladstone score came in the last quarter. Driving 70 yards from their own 23 the Braves were forced to relinquish the ball. Manistique fumbled on the first play with Gladstone recovering. Gillis slashed off left tackle to score the goal untouched from the 8. Valind missed his second out of 6 placements. z z

With minutes to go Coach Eldon Keil inserted an entire string of substitutes and Manistique, relying mainly on passes, drove 70 yards to the one-foot line where they were stopped.

On the first play, the pass from center went over the head of the Gladstone back and over the end zone for an automatic safety. It was the first time this year that Gladstone had been scored on. Gladstone Position Manistique

How Helpless Are the Seeds
The pine cones are ripening and the tiny seeds, winged by nature, lie in their almost rocklike cases. Soon hard shells open and from every opening in the cone the seeds flutter to the earth. Those of us who try to understand nature seldom fail to look around for the "mother" tree.

Her "children" can be seen gathered around her, for a mother tree bring up her family year after year, century after century. A young pine, in her first bearing of cones, is an interesting sight to me and it should be to everyone who rides or walks through the woods.

Those who are interested in pine trees, particularly white pine and Norway (red) pine observe the family and try to trace the generations through a hundred years or more. This can be done without failing one tree. Yet an old timer will tell you their ages quickly, and if they are off a few years, more or less, what does it matter?

One looks over an unplanted area, an area with great pines in the hardwood—mixed timber, it is termed—and reads them thusly: "150 years ago the mother tree dropped her cones right here. Her children are gathered around her, for here are trees almost as old as she."

"How closely they stand. When her cones opened, the winged seed dropped on a calm, still day 125 years ago. Their light wings would have carried them several hundred feet on a windy day. It must have been a still day and the trees were young."

"The little seeds sprouted when there was just enough light and air, not too much cover to prevent their growth. The hardwoods must have come along later and these pines did not have to fight their way through too heavy a canopy and their growth was fast."

You of this younger generation have not seen the great pine stands or the pines among the hardwoods, yet you aren't too young to see them now if you use your imagination. Look over our land today and learn to read that which you see.

When you come to a large pine.

MICHIGAN WHIPS HOOSIERS, 21-0

BY FRANK KENESSON

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 28. (AP)—Smothering Indiana's defending Western Conference football champs with a flood of talented reserve power, Michigan whipped the Hoosiers 21 to 0 with a pair of fourth period touchdowns, today, before a record opening day crowd of 74,600 fans.

It was the biggest crowd an Indiana university eleven ever played to, but the throng in the stands didn't bother the Hoosiers like the crowd of Wolverine reserves on the field.

Michigan scored first just nine plays after it took the ball for the first time in the opening five minutes of play, halfback Gene Derricotte passing 11 yards to halfback Paul White to climax a 46 yard march.

The Hoosiers struck back with their air might, spearheaded by three different pitchers, and drove 65 yards on five straight pass plays in the late stages of the second period but after reaching the Wolverine 10 the drive was halted by Bob Cowan's fumble.

Michigan unleashed its running attack in the third period to get inside the Indiana 20 once, where Hoosier end Lou Mihajlovich of South Bend intercepted one of Bob Chappuis' passes and it was still 7 to 0 when Michigan turned on the heat in the fourth period.

Leonard Ford, six-foot four-inch Michigan end, recovered fullback Rex Grossman's fumble on the Indiana 18 on the last play of the third stanza, and after one running play the Wolverines scored again on a 17 yard pass from halfback Pete Elliott that Ford caught on his finger tips in the end zone.

Less than a minute later Ralph Chubb caught one of Grossman's punts on the Michigan 47 and handed the ball on a reverse to Derricotte, who raced 53 yards down the sideline behind perfect blocking for the last touchdown.

Jim Brieske, extra point specialist who booted 15 of 16 points after touchdown for Michigan in 1942, converted all three today. Michigan used 34 substitutes—11 of them backs—to wear down the Hoosiers who called only 20 reserves off the bench.

Indiana, off its effective passing attack that gained a total of 172 yards, outdistanced the Wolverines in first downs 13 to 7 but Michigan had an edge of 195 yards to Indiana's 51 rushing.

STANDINGS TIED AGAIN BY CARDS

Brechen Hurls 4-Hit, 4-1 Victory Over Chicago Cubs

St. Louis, Sept. 28 (AP)—Harry (The Cat) Brechen took the St. Louis Cardinals by their neck feathers and lifted them back into an exact first place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight by hurling a four-hit, 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the next-to-last game of the season.

Handcuffing the Cubs with his left handed curve and his darting screw ball, the veteran "money pitcher" from Broken Bow, Oklahoma won the big one that the Redbirds had to have. A loss would have practically eliminated them from the race.

MAY DELAY SERIES
New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—This is what happens if the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn finish the National League race tied for first place tomorrow.

1. The World Series, now scheduled to open Wednesday at either St. Louis or Brooklyn, would be delayed until Sunday, Oct. 6.

2. The first game of a three-game playoff between the Dodgers and the Cardinals would be held at St. Louis on Tuesday.

3. The second game of the playoff would be held at Brooklyn on Thursday and the third game, if necessary, at Brooklyn, on Friday.

Brechen's masterpiece brought the National League race down to the finish line in its most exciting climax in years. Never has an exact first place tie existed at the end of the regular season but that will happen tomorrow if the Cards and Dodgers both win or both lose their single respective games with the Cubs and Braves.

Way back in 1908 there was a "playoff" game after the season that actually was a replay of an earlier disputed game in which Fred Merkle of the New York Yankees failed to touch second base against the Chicago Cubs. This would be the first time in league rules calling for a three-game play-off would have to be used.

Mess If It Rains
Rain tomorrow would send the whole situation into a horrible mess. Scattered thunderstorms have been predicted for the St. Louis area.

Eddie Dyer named George (Red) Mungler to take the hill in the payoff game of the campaign against Lefty Johnny Schmitz whose infected foot was recovered sufficiently for him to take one last turn. Mungler has won two and lost one and one of his victories was scored over Chicago. Of Schmitz' 10 victories, three have been at the Birds' expense.

With fan interest at its highest peak since 1926, the year of the Cards' first flag, a crowd of 25,956 pushed the season paid attendance to 1,002,383, the first time Sportsman's Park ever recorded a million paid in a season.

Cardinal fans detected a ray of hope that their team's hitting slump had ended when the Redbirds climbed on Paul Erickson, knocking him out of the box before anyone was out in the first inning.

The Cardinals scored two runs in that inning and from that point on Brechen hurled his heart out, bearing down on every pitch in World Series fashion just as he did in Chicago Monday when he shut out the Bruins 1-0.

We'll Lose 3 Or 4, Claims Irish Coach

By JERRY LISKA

AP Newsfeatures

South Bend, Ind.—If Notre Dame is lurking in the football bushes to avenge two war-time humiliations by mighty Army, pessimistic Frank Leahy is keeping it secret.

Leahy, back at the Irish helm after two years in the Navy, even has hedged on his recent assertion that Notre Dame will have a "representative team" in 1946. "That is to say," qualifies Frank, who has lost none of his prewar "Gloomy Gus" talent, "Notre Dame will have a fairly good team. However, we'll probably lose three or four games."

In Leahy's book, the Irish can easily bow to Army, Illinois, Navy and Southern California. He rates Army, still powered by Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis, as the strongest team in the country.

Leahy points out that Illinois, which is pointing for Notre Dame as much as the Irish are gunning for Army, has a 220-pound line "paving the way" for fleet Buddy Young.

Likes Trojans

Only three or four of last year's Southern California Rose Bowl team, explains Frank, who appears to have a pretty good line on Irish opposition, figure to be talented enough to make the Trojan varsity this fall.

For all of Leahy's sad words, however, there is good reason to suspect the Irish, bolstered by such returned servicemen backs as Johnny Lujack, Bob Livingston, Jerry Cowhig and Bob Kelly, back from the Naval Academy, will not roll over and play dead for anybody this fall.

Nor will it take much of a pep talk to get the Irish steamed up for their Nov. 9 New York meeting with Army, which handed Notre Dame an unprecedented 59-0 pasting in 1944 and followed up with a 48-0 spanking last year.

Lujack, star of Notre Dame's powerful 1943 team, is the key man of an Irish backfield which should be fast and rugged, although Leahy claims he still is hunting a break-away runner "of the type which went with good Notre Dame teams of the past."

Kelly, who returned from Annapolis some 30 pounds over his 185 playing weight, could supply that lightning scoring punch if he whittles down the hefty which gave him leg trouble through spring practice.

Meanwhile, Leahy has a pair of able holdover halfbacks in Livingston, Floyd Simmons and Terry Brennan, Freshman Mike Swistowicz, who starred in spring practice, and Emil Sitko, ex-servicemen.

Husky Halfbacks

The fullback post will have a trio of huskies back from military service, well-versed in Irish tactics—including Jim Mello, Cowhig and Corwin Clatt, former letter-winners.

The Irish line bristles with brawn and experience, especially from tackle to tackle. It is here Leahy struck a fine service windfall with George Strohmeyer, great Iowa Preflight center; Ziggy Czarowski, regular 1942 and 1943 guard now shifted to tackle; Luke Higgins, 1942 tackle converted to guard; and George Rubin, 1942 guard, all back at South Bend.

In addition, Center Bill Walsh and Guards Fred Rovai and Johnny Mastrangelo are returning veterans, while George Connor former Holy Cross freshman, is being hailed as one of the best tackle prospects in the country.

Limont Top End

Veteran Paul Limont is expected back from service to head the end corps which will also include Frank Kosciowski, star at Fleet City, Calif., 205-pound Jim Martin, a converted guard, Bob Walsh and Jack Zilly.

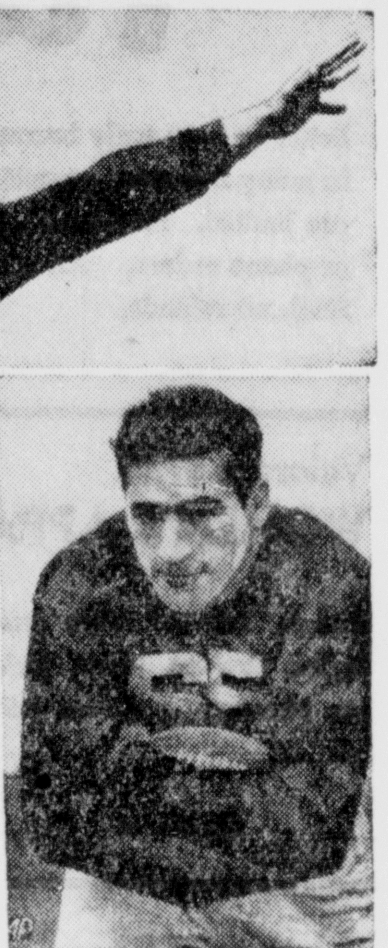

The Irish schedule:
Oct. 5—Pittsburgh, 12—Purdue.
Oct. 12—Iowa City.
Nov. 2—Navy, at Baltimore.
Nov. 9—Army, at New York; 16—Northwestern; 23—Tulane, at New Orleans; 30—Southern California.

New Bucs Manager Sees Team Trounce Cincinnati, 10 to 3

Cincinnati, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates trounced the Cincinnati Reds, 10-3, here today to make Virgil (Spud) Davis' debut as acting manager of the Bucs an auspicious occasion.

Frankie Gustine's two homers accounting for three runs paced the 12-hit Pittsburgh attack off three Cincinnati pitchers. He belted his first circuit drive with bases empty in the fourth and the second in the eighth with Jeep Handley aboard.

DODGERS LOOK LIKE CHAMPIONS

Braves Trampled, 7-4, As Brooklyn Moves To Top Of Loop

By JOE REICHLER

Brooklyn, Sept. 28 (AP)—Playing like champions behind Rookie Joe Hatten, the Brooklyn Dodgers trounced the Boston Braves 7-4 today to seize undisputed possession of the National League lead for the first time since August 21, with the St. Louis Cardinals getting their chance to tie it up again tonight against the Chicago Cubs.

Hatten received errorless and, at times, brilliant support as he let down the Braves with five hits, one a home run by Danny Litwhiler, the stylish left-hander also fanned seven batters as he registered his 14th triumph against defeats and his sixth in a row.

Augie Galan, with a double that knocked in the first two runs and two subsequent singles, was the Dodgers' batting star, playing in left field in place of the injured Pete Reiser. Galan scored three runs.

The Dodgers crashed through in the first inning, Augie Galan's double off the right field screen scoring Ed Stanky and Harry Lavagetto, who had walked. Galan came home on an error and an infield out.

The Braves got their first run in the fourth on singles by Litwhiler and Phil Masi and Nanny Fernandez. Litwhiler's one batter with one away, was the first hit off Hatten.

The Brooks tallied three more in the fifth when Dick Mulligan, who had relieved Sain in the first and pitched scoreless ball for three rounds, suddenly hit a spell of wildness, with two out Galan singled and paraded around the bases when the left-hander, recently obtained from the Philadelphia Phils, walked Dixie Walker.

Howie Schultz and Carl Furillo in a row. Pee Wee Reese's single with the bases loaded scored two more.

The Braves picked up a run in the seventh when Connie Ryan followed a walk to Masi with a booming triple down the right field line. It was only the third hit off Hatten. The Dodgers got that back in their half of the seventh when Galan and Walker singled off Ed Wright, fourth Boston pitcher, and Schultz squeezed Galan home with a bunt toward the mound. Furillo, the next batter, singled, but Walker had the misfortune of being picked off second an instant before.

Litwhiler's homer in the eighth, on the heels of Billy Herman's single, closed out the scoring for both teams. Hatten retired the last three men in the ninth in order, fanning Johnny Hopp and Ryan to end the game.

Frisch Quits Post As Pirate Manager

Cincinnati, Sept. 28 (AP)—Frank Frisch, the Fordham flash, today submitted his resignation as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, wished his successor "the best of luck" and became an applicant for another job in baseball.

"I definitely have no intention of retiring," said Frisch, here with the Buccaneers who meet the Cincinnati Reds in a single game today and wind up the season with a twin bill tomorrow. Frisch added:

"I have no immediate plans for the future. The only thing else I have to say is that I wish the new club management and the new manager, whoever he may be, the best of luck."

The resignation of Frisch, who became Pirate field boss in 1940 after a career that included service as a great second baseman with the New York Giants and pilot of the 1934 St. Louis Cardinals, was announced in Pittsburgh by Ray Kennedy, general manager of the club, who said Coach Virgil (Spud) Davis would direct the team the last three games of the season.

SPARTANS SLAP WAYNE, 42 TO 0

By DICK FRAZIER

East Lansing, Sept. 28 (AP)—A powerful but still ragged Michigan State College eleven rang up a 42 to 0 victory over Wayne University here today for the Spartans' ninth consecutive triumph over the Detroiters.

Russ Reader of Dearborn, State's brilliant left halfback, sparked his team's attack, scoring two of the MSC touchdowns and passing for a third.

Wayne was in scoring position only twice. A fumble ruined the Tartars' chances on one occasion and on another, the Spartans held their opponents for downs on the four-yard line.

In piling up their highest winning margin over a Wayne team in the history of the series, the Spartans held down their score by fumbling and being penalized. State drew a total of 80 yards in penalties and fumbled six times while Wayne was penalized 65 yards and made three fumbles. The official attendance was 19,106.

State's first touchdown came on a 39-yard pass from Reader to Lynn Chandois, right halfback from Flint, half way through the first period. Less than three minutes later, Fullback Steve Sieradzki picked a hole in the right side of the line and went all the way from Wayne's 43-yard line to score. A four yard yard by Halfback Bill Spiegel on a reverse play accounted for the Spartans' third marker early in the second period.

Reader brought the fans to their feet as the third period opened when he took Johnny Sazely's kickoff on State's two-yard line, picked up his blocking near midfield and sprinted in a zig-zag course 98 yards for a touchdown. The Spartans were on their own 45 a few minutes later when Quarterback Russ Gilpin tossed a short pass to Reader on the Wayne 40. He scored going away.

Freshman Halfback Gene Glick scored State's final touchdown in the fourth period after taking a lateral from Jim Blenkhorn on the 10-yard line.

Reader kicked four of MSC's after-touchdown points and Pete Fornari booted the other two.

Army-Navy Planners Say It Would Take Year To Remobilize

By CLARKE BEACH

Washington, Sept. 28 (AP)—The United States has no industrial mobilization plan today. It suddenly faced with a new national emergency, the only practicable course would be to revive a modified system of production controls such as was in effect a year ago.

Richard R. Deupree, chairman of the Army and Navy Munitions Board, made these statements in an exclusive interview. He told me, however, that he and his board are at work on an industrial mobilization plan which will be completed "sometime in 1947."

If, meanwhile, the Army and Navy had to be mobilized for war, the process of industrial mobilization would require about one year. That statement comes from Lieut. Gen. LeRoy Lutes, the war department's director of service supply and procurement.

"Everything could start rolling in that time," the General said. "There would be full production within fifteen months."

Present stocks of surplus war materials, however, would provide most of the equipment the armed forces would need before new production could be started.

Highly placed officers estimate the navy would be amply supplied for about nine months, the army for a year. Army air forces leaders, however, believe they could mobilize and train personnel faster than aircraft could be supplied.

The industrial mobilization job could be done faster than in the last war, Lutes believes, because for the next few years we shall

Babe Takes Another Golf Championship

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, of Denver, Colo., added the national women's amateur golf championship to her long list of "firsts" for America's women athletes today, by defeating Mrs. Clara Sherman, Pasadena, Calif., 11 and 9.

A drizzling rain that fell throughout the day slowed play around the greens.

Never down to an opponent for four days of match play over the tricky, deeply trapped 6,232-yard Southern Hills Country club course, the great Babe took a one-up lead with a birdie 4 on the 415-yard second hole and, after seeing Mrs. Sherman even at the sixth, made a walk-away of what was expected to be a fight to the finish.

Reader brought the fans to their feet as the third period opened when he took Johnny Sazely's kickoff on State's two-yard line, picked up his blocking near midfield and sprinted in a zig-zag course 98 yards for a touchdown. The Spartans were on their own 45 a few minutes later when Quarterback Russ Gilpin tossed a short pass to Reader on the Wayne 40. He scored going away.

"Industry is giving us splendid cooperation," Deupree told me. "They feel, as I do, that the better prepared we are for industrial mobilization, the less likely we are to be attacked. A good mobilization plan will help to prevent war."

The stockpiling of strategic and critical materials is also one of the board's responsibilities. It is now directing purchases with $100,000,000 appropriated by the last Congress. It plans to buy $2,000,000,000 worth of the scarce materials within the next five years. Deupree says the board will need $200,000,000 more this year to keep its program up to schedule.

In its stockpiling, the board is making a studied effort to obtain bargains, and it is keeping its operations as secret as possible so as not to disturb market conditions. About $300,000,000 worth of materials will be available from surplus property, Deupree says, but "where such material is critical to civilian economy it is being released to industry."

Also under board is the disposition of government-owned defense plants. The chief problem here is keeping strings on those plants and facilities which would be needed in case of mobilization. Donald M. Nelson, former war production board chairman, is surveying the situation and preparing to advise the board regarding stand-by plants.

The government formerly owned about 1,000 war plants. It has disposed of all but about 400, and Deupree says the status of these will be settled within a month.

The government, in addition, owns portions of plants and facilities which are tied in with private industry. There are about 1,500 in this category of "scrambled facilities" as Deupree calls them.

Some of these plants and facilities are being sold unconditionally. Some are being disposed of with provisos that the machinery or plant will be left unchanged and that the property can be "recaptured" by the government in case of an emergency.

In some instances, Deupree says, the logical course seems to be to remove and store or maintain in place certain machinery and tools for which the armed services might have a future need. These properties now are owned by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, however, and before it can turn them over to the armed forces it must obtain authority from Congress.

The board, moreover, wants industry to prepare plans for rapid expansion of production and where necessary to produce and store any materials or tools which it will need if it must turn suddenly to war production.

Making such plans and procuring such items, however, would involve expense to industry. Deupree points out that little can be done along this line until Congress provides funds for the purpose.

SOAP SHORTAGE MAY GET WORSE

Supply Of Animal Fat And Vegetable Oil Scarce

By OVID A. MARTIN
(P) Newsfeatures

Washington —Housewives may have to wait another year before supplies of laundry bar soap and soap flakes are sufficient to meet their demands.

In fact, there is a possibility that because of a scarcity of raw materials soap production during the fall and early winter months may drop to the lowest level since early in the war.

It takes animal fats and vegetable oils—such as tallow, lard, linseed oil, soybean oil, and coconut oil—to make soap.

Supplies of these grew scarce early in the war, not only in this country, but throughout the world. The principal cause was the shutting off of supplies normally obtained by this country and Europe from the southwest Pacific.

Failed to Offset It

The United States sought to offset these lost imports by encouraging domestic farmers to produce more soybeans and flaxseed as well as more animal fats. An expansion in production was achieved, but it was not sufficient to meet domestic demands. Some of the vegetable oils are used in the manufacture of margarine, shortening and other foods as well as in soaps.

The domestic supply situation was complicated by the fact that this country found it necessary to share some of its fats and oils with its fighting allies.

In order to make the short supplies of fats and oils go around, the government in effect rationed them. Soap manufacturers, for example, have been limited to 78 per cent of the average quantity of fats and oils they used in corresponding quarters of the years 1940 and 1941.

Demand Is Growing

Demand, on the other hand increased above the 1940 and 1941 levels as the population increased and consumer incomes improved. The government had expected earlier this year that the supply of fats and oils would improve and that more could be rationed to soap makers. Officials had counted upon a larger production of animal fats, soybeans and flaxseed and upon re-establishment of coconut oil imports on a large scale, particularly from the Philippines.

But along came a grain shortage—brought on by the need to send large quantities of cereals to hungry areas abroad. This reduced livestock feed supplies and forced a reduction in livestock production. Consequently, less fat was obtained from slaughtering.

The development of widespread black market meat slaughtering this year likewise adversely affected fat salvage for soaps. Agriculture department officials say that millions of pounds of animal carcass unfit for food but usable for soap undoubtedly were wasted.

Ceilings May Be Factor

The recent re-establishment of ceilings on livestock and meats also may adversely affect the production of animal fats in the months immediately ahead. There are indications that some livestock farmers will hold their beef cattle until ceilings are increased or removed altogether. The government had gotten coconut oil moving to this country from the Philippines, but the maritime strike halted the flow just when it was badly needed to offset the decline in animal fat production.

Officials believe, however, that imports of vegetable oils will increase sufficiently in 1947 to allow soap manufacturers to make all the soap housewives want by the latter part of the year.

The government has no plans to ration soap. Officials say there is no practical way to do it on the basis of need, and that furthermore they do not have the machinery to do it.
